This book cannot be construed as a true and proven genealogy. Much of the data is taken from other genealogies and other sources such as: tombstones, county histories and family lore. It is the true story of the CUNNINGHAM Family down to the present time, 1986. There is a continuity of dates and events that are undeniably the truth.

Although this book started out to be the history of George A. Cunningham and his forebears, it ended up as the history of the four sons of Alexander Cunningham and his wife, Rebecca Burns, who purportedly came to America in 1752, according to Norman F. Kendall in his book, "The Kendall, Cunningham and Snodgrass Families." There is a contention that they really came earlier, about 1742. This genealogy lists some of these families and their descendants, but there is a lapse of legal registration of names and dates, due to there being no official government in the wilds of what is now West Virginia, to keep these records.

Some of the data collected, was taken from Norman Festus Kendall's book, "The Kendall, Cunningham and Snodgrass Families." He states that his chief sources of information were as follows: Dublin University, University of Scotland, the English Archives and family data kept by the Rev. David Cunningham, born 1803 and John Neason Cunningham, born 1851.

The families of the Cunninghams, the Moats, the Collins, Modisetts, Collins and many, many more families are tracable to Alexander, born in 1653 and then back to his great grandfather, Alexander, born in 1498. There is family lore that tells of the family's assumption of it's name, circa 1162.

Later records were found in the census records of Ritchie County, West Virginia and Jay County, Indiana. These courthouses also had usable data: The genealogy department of the Fort Wayne Library had excellent and usable data in their family records, national census records and county histories. The death records of Noble County were also very helpful, giving us the information to send us to West Virginia and their state archives at Charleston. Some of our information was gathered by members of the Ritchie County Historical Society, the Cunningham descendants of West Virginia and across the entire nation.

We extend our thanks and appreciation to our many, many correspondents who assisted us in our work.

HISTORY AND ORIGIN OF THE CUNNINGHAM FAMILY

The Cunningham family is listed in Douglas Peerage - Vol. I, page 632. Warnebal, the progenitor of this family, settled in Glengarnock, or Cunningham as a vassal under Hugh DeMorville, constable of Scotland, who died in 1162, and from whom he obtained the Manor of Cunningham, which comprised the church and the greater part of the Parish of Kilmaurs. He had turned from a common vassal to a valued leader of Hugh Demorville's army. From the holdings that he had received, he was given the right to assume the name of Cunningham. The ruins of Glengarnock or Cunningham Castle, still stands in the edge of the Garnock River two miles north of Kilbirnie, Scotland. It was sacked by the Danes in early history of the family.

Through the force of arms and general striving, the family made itself one of the foremost families of Scotland. This clan, until recently headed by Sir William Montgomery Cunningham, is still strong and active. Harvey De Cunningham, family tradition holds, fought at the Battle of Largs in 1263 and thereby earned a confirmation on the following year from Alexander II.

In 1321 Hugh De Cunningham got lands of Lamburton from Robert, The Bruce, and thereafter a series of marriages moved the family ahead. Hugh DeCunningham's grandson, Sir William Cunnington, married the heiress of Danly and his Sir Alexander Cunningham was created Lord of Kilmaurs on or about 1462 and Earl of Glenbairn in 1488. Robert, 2nd Laird of Kilmaurs, was deprived of his father's Earldom but it was revived for his brother, Cuthbert, 3rd Lord of Kilmaurs. Various members of the Cunningham family clan played parts in the exciting and colorful life of Mary, Queen of Scots, and it was that regal lady who lifted one branch of the family into a feudal barony. Alexander Cunningham, 5th Earl of Glencairn, was one of the most prominent and active members of the clan, being one of the promoters of the Reformation of Scotland. He stopped the advance of Mary, Queen of Scots, with a force of 2500 valunteers.

There are two coats of arms registered to the Cunningham family. The oldest, of Glencairn, has for it's central figure a fork. On either side of the fork is a coney or rabbit. The crests are a crown and unicorn. The motto is "Over Fork Over". The other or latest coat of arms has the fork and unicorn crests and the same motto, but instead of coneys, one side has a soldier with a spear and the other side has a farmer holding a fork.

In connection with the name Cunningham, it was variously spelled as Conyngham, Cuningham, Cuminghame and Cunningham. The old Anglo-Saxon spelling was Cyningham, meaning King's Home. The family was prolific and by the time the King of England demanded their allegiance to him as head of the Church of England, their numbers were wide spread throughout England, Scotland and Ireland. The people of Scotland were principally Presbyterians, with a deep religious character and extremely conscientious. Their material accomplishments, as pioneers, adventurers, traders, statesmen, literature and in finance showed them to be peers of any of the peoples of the world. The Presbyterians of Scotland were persecuted by the English when they refused their allegiance to the King as head of the Church. Their persecution was so great that many of the Scots were tortured and slain under the so-called heresy laws of that time. Thousands immigrated to Northern Ireland, to lands previously devastated by the English. In mid 1600's and early 1700's many came to America. The first to come settled in the Boston area and those in the 1700's settled in Virginia and were the ancestors of the Virginia families.

Timothy Pont says, "The undoubted cause why this country is named (as by a generall named Cunyngham) be somequhat difficle to beknoen, yet, nevertheless, it is so named by most pairt of the best judgement (amongst quhome is Buchanan) yat it is so named because yat in it hath some tyme beine Royall habitations of a King, for so doeth ye vord (Kunning) being Danish signifieng a King, and Hamin vich signifieth some tyme a habitations, as if one vould say the King's habitations or duelling, for so much does Buchanan sho us in thesse vords: (continues in Latin).

Cunninghame comprises the parishes of Ardrossan, Beith, Dalry, Dreghorn, part of Funlop, Fenwick, Irvine, Kilbirnie, West Kilbride, Kilmarnock, Kilmaurs, Largs, Loudin, Stevenson and Stewarton.

Page 11 -- River Carnock rises at the foot of a moorland hill called the Misty-Law on the borders of Renfrewshire. The "Sout of Carnock" is a lonely, romantic catartact, formed by the river on the upper side of the town of Kilbirnier, and is the finest cascade in Ayrshire.

Page 17 -- In Roman times the area was inhabited by five independent Celtic tribes known as the "Otadeni, the Gadeni, the Selgovae, the Novantes and Damni."

Page 19 -- From 843 to 1097 governed as a Celtic people...upon accession of Edgar in 1097, active colonization commenced which peopled the district with newcomers from England. The emmigration of Saxon and Norman families became more marked during the reign of David I. Among the Anglo-Norman settlers who followed the standard of David, was Hugh De Moreville of Bury in Cumberland. His son and successor, Richard De Moreville, was the reputed founder of the Abbey of Kilwinning.

Page 326 -- The ruins of Glengarnock Castle stand on a precipitious knoll overhanging the Water of Carnock, about two miles from Kilbirnie. In it's palmy days, this ancient stronghold consisted of a quadrilateral tower, upwards of 40 feet in height, with an attached court of wider but less elevated buildings. The tower was divided into two vaulted apartments, the upper one having apparently been used as the hall. From this apartment, a narrow circular stair led to the top of the tower, which was protected by a parapet wall. This portion of the castle is reconed to be of great antiquity, and may have existed at the time of the De Morevilles, although the conjecture of it's having been a residence of these, and other Lords of Cunninghame appears entitled to the same consideration as that of it's having been the Castle of Hardyknute. Glengarnock is said to have been abandoned as a residence early in the last century. Thereafter it speedily fell into ruinous condition and in a January storm of 1839 the north wall of the tower was overthrown. The progress of decay was subsequently arrested by the propietor, William Cochrane Patrick, Esq. of Ladyland, who had the ruin in a manner restored.

Of the Riddles, the most ancient possessors of the Barony of Glengarnock on record, all that is known, with certainty is that the line terminated with an heiress who, sometime previous to 1266, had espoused Hervey Cunninghame of Kilmaurs, to whom the Peerage writers have assigned the honour of having gallantly distinguished himself at the Battle of Largs. Califrudus, the second son of this marriage, was the ancestor of the Cunninghams of Glengarnock.

Kilmaurs (Demolished)

Kilmurs Castle is described in Pont's Survey as "ane ancient strong building belonging to ye Earls of Glencairn, environed with a fair park called Carmel Wood, from ye water of Carmel yat runs by it." Of this ancient batonial manor place not a vestige now remains (1897). It is supposed to have been situated about a mile south east of the village of Kilmaurs on a farm called Jock's Thorn. The ruins of a comparatively modern mansion, known as Kilmaurs Place, are not to be mistaken for those of the more ancient manor house.

Cunningham legend.

The first of the Cunninghams of Kilmaurs is Wernebald, a vassal of the DeMorevilles, from which he obtained a grant of the Manor of Cunninghame, which comprehended the church and the greater part of the parish of Kilmaurs. In consequence of this, Wernebald assumed the name of Cunninghame. Wernebald was succeeded by his son, Robert Cunninghame, who was witness to several charters, granted by Richard DeMoreville and by William the Lyon. Sir William Cunninghame of Kilmaurs, who succeeded to the estates in 1385, had a charter from King Robert III of the lands of Kilmaurs and other extensive possessions in Ayrshire. It was Sir William who founded and endowed the Vollegiate Church of Kilmaurs. He died in 1418 and was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir Robert, who was knighted by King James I at his coronation. From this second son, William, are descended the Cunninghams of Cunninghamehead. Sir Robert Cunningham married Anne, the only daughter of Sir John Montgomerie of Ardrossan. Their eldest son, Alexander, was created Lord Kilmaurs in or about 1450 and in 1488 was advanced to the dignity of Earl of Glencairn. The patent of this peerage, which is dated 7 March 1488, is the oldest one to exist in Scotland. Alexander, the fifth earl, was known, in his time, as the good Earl, from taking an active part in promoting the Reformation. He was the author of the famous rhyme called "ane Epistle direct fra the halie Hermit of Alariet, to his Brether of the Gray Freirs" which is quoted by John Knox in his "Historie of the Reformation". James, fourteenth Earl of Glencairn, is remembered as one of the earliest patrons of our National Bard. He has been characterized as "an accomplished nobleman, a scholar, and a man of taste and sensibility". As a reward of his generosity, the poet has immortalized his memory in the well known "Lament of James, Earl of Glencairn." His brother, John, who was the last Earl, died unmarried in 1796, and the succession with the family honours became extinct.

ALEXANDER'S sons were the progenitors of many of the early Cunningham families of Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio. All these sons came to America in 1752, except Joseph. He held a trusted position in the British government. He visited relatives in America immediately prior to the Revolution. His son, John, had come earlier and stayed. He was active in the affairs of the fledgling nation, serving in the Revolution.

HUGH CUNNINGHAM MARRIED NANCY O'NEIL in 1728. She was Irish.

JAMES CUNNINGHAM James was a half brother to the above mentioned sons of Alexander. He was a Revolutionary veteran, having served with his half brother, David.

Hugh, his brothers and their families immigrated to Fairfax County, Virginia, entering this country by the Potomac River. The county was formed by the Fairfax family. Other settlers in the area were the Culpeppers, the Arlingtons, and the Spotswoods. Family lore notes that these early families employed the Cunningham men as traders and business emissaries in the pioneer trade. Robert Cunningham was an employee of the Hudson Bay Company.

The Cunninghams did not stay long as a family unit in Colonial Virginia. By 1775, at the start of the Revolution, they were scattered throughout the colony, mostly living on the fringes of civilization, the frontier.

HUGH CUNNINGHAM, SON OF ALEXANDER CUNNINGHAM AND REBECCA BURNS.

Born in Dublin, Ireland in 1708. The date and site of his death are unknown, but in all probability in a county in Virginia where one of his sons lived.

EARLY SETTLERS AND PEOPLE IN VIRGINIA

The Cunninghams in Virginia were the associates of many of the famous pioneer explorers of the late 1700's. Nearly all the people that moved westward, passed through part of Virginia where they were settling. Many of them were a part of this pioneering and exploration.

Simon Girty, the renegade, is mentioned in this genealogy. Simon, Daniel Boone, Simon Kenton and other frontiersmen explored westward from Virginia and opened the territory of the Ohio Valley and Kentucky. When the Revolutionary war evolved, Simon Girty, his brother, and many others could not see how a fledging nation, such as the United States, could successfully withstand the armies and armament of Great Britain, and sided with the British sympathasizers. Consequently he was hired by the British to get the Indian Nations support in the conquest of the settlers on the frontier. This made him a traitor in the eyes of the Americans and did result in the deaths of many pioneer families. He also sided in the release of many white captives of the Indians, as he did in the case of the release of Phebe Cunningham, wife of Thomas. Simon did witness many massacres and some say he participated in them. He also witnessed many tortures by the Indians and when he protested to the cruelty of the acts, he angered the Indians to the point that they threatened him with likefate. Also in the late 1700's while the Cunninghams were leading parties of surveying trips into West Virginia, there was a famous Indian Chieftain and Warrior, called Blue Jacket. He was a white youth who had been captured by the Indians when quite young and adopted by an Indian Chief. He succeeded his adoptive father and led his tribe against the settlers. He had an intense hatred for the whites and their treatment of the Indians. He took many white scalps. There are many stories such as this in the book, "Wither's Border Wars".

HUGH CUNNINGHAM AND THE BATTLE OF BLUE LICKS

In spite of the fact that many, many historical sources state that Hugh Cunningham, that was the son of Alexander and was born in 1708, was killed in the Battle of Blue Licks, they are very much in error. This fact is perpetrated by researchers who rely on only one document from the files of the Virginia State Archives when there are two referring to Hugh's service. The fact that there seems to be no record of Hugh's (B 1708) death other than at the Battle of Blue Licks, makes researchers prone to accept the much publicized version. Common sense and a bit of deduction should tend to tell a person that a seventy-four year old man would not be readily accepted into a Militia. The battle was preceded by a forty-four mile night ride through the wilderness. Not a likely feat for an elderly man. Too, there is no record of Alexander's Hugh migrating to Kentucky.

I have recently received information that the Hugh Cunningham involved in the Blue Lick battle was a much younger man, being born ca 1741 and dying in 1820, in Lincoln County, Kentucky. His will was probated in December of 1820, leaving each of his sons, Thomas, James and John, a third of his estate. A grandson was also mentioned. It is thought that his wife's name was Elizabeth. There is further records of this Cunningham family in Fayette and Woodward counties of Kentucky. John, son of Hugh, had a son, William N. Cunningham, who came to Indiana and settled near Martinsville.

The conclusion must be reached that there are two Hugh Cunningham and that in the D.A.R. and other historical records, their records have been combined. The conclusion also must be reached that the Hugh of Eastern Virginia was born in Ireland in 1708, but that at this time there is no known place or date of death. It is also true that there was a Hugh in the Battle of Blue Licks, (and only one), but he was captured, not killed. Supporting documents are on the following pages. _ _ _ _ _

THE TRUE HUGH CUNNINGHAM OF THE BATTLE OF BLUE LICKS, B. CA 1740 D. 1819

Hugh was probably the son of Jacob, and a grandson of James Cunningham. He settled in Augusta County, Virginia, near Solon, just north of Staunton. Hugh and his family suffered two Indian raids by the Shawnee Indians. One in 1762 and the other in 1764. His parents were killed in the first raid and his daughter, although scalped, lived through the ordeal. On the second raid, the Indians discovered the young girl who had been scalped in the first raid. This being quite a trophy, they took her back to their camp and paraded her through the various villages, wearing her scalp as a hair piece. In this last raid, Hugh was severely wounded and his wife killed. Virginia, at this time, extended to the Mississippi River and Hugh pushed on to Lincoln, Kentucky, in Jefferson County. He remarried and joined the Virginia Militia. During the Battle of Blue Licks, Hugh was captured and taken to Canada by the British and their Indian Allies. Hugh and his eleven fellow captives were released at the conclusion of the Revolutionary War and returned to Lincoln, Kentucky. Hugh rejoined the Militia as a Ranger - spy the day of his return. He had been officially declared dead months before and his estate turned over to his wife Elizabeth. Hugh and Elizabeth had three sons, James, John and Thomas. If they had any daughters, they were not mentioned.

Hugh's on, James, had a son, Henry Gibson Cunningham. Henry had a son, James Hamilton Cunningham B. 1840. D. 1882. His son, Henry Allen Cunningham, B. 1878. D. 1946 was my father.

The above article was submitted by Allen Cunningham of Axtell, Texas.

FAMILY LORE ON THE CUNNINGHAMS, AND LEGEND ON THE HUGH CUNNINGHAM WHO WAS IN THE BATTLE OF BLUE LICKS IN KENTUCKY IN 1782, AS TAKEN FROM A LETTER FROM ALLEN HAMILTON CUNNINGHAM OF R.R. 1, Box 54R, Axtell, Tx. 76624.

LEGEND:

William Shakespeare used Holinshed's "Chronicles of England, Scotland and Ireland", published in 1577, to draw plots for several of his plays, including Macbeth. Macbeth killed Duncan, King of Scotland in 1040. Macbeth, a kinsman of King Duncan, believed that Duncan would pass on the crown to one of his two sons, Malcomb or Donald, with the passing of time. To circumvent this succession, Macbeth murdered Duncan and sent soldiers to hunt down the two legitimate heirs to the throne. How much time elapsed before the two boys were nearly caught by the agents of Macbeth is not known, but presumably several years passed as they were hidden by the adherents of Duncan.

A peasant farmer, Friskin, and his son Malcomb were gathering hay for their cattle. The two boys in their flight from Macbeth's minions encountered Malcomb and his father, who saved them from their pursuers by hiding them under the hay stacks. This is authentic Cunningham lore and is the source of the Coat of Arms motto, "Over Fork Over".

Malcomb fled England and Donald went to Ireland. Years later Malcomb killed Macbeth in the Battle of Lumphannan. He then succeeded to the throne as Malcomb III. The Cunningham name had not yet been coined and would not be for some two or three hundred years -- as surnames were not used. The district, now known as Ayrshire, was known for its cattle and dairy products. "Cunneag" supposedly meant butter churn and "Hame" meant home, hence Ayrshire became known as "Cunneag Hame", corrupted to Cunningham and its various spellings. Malcomb remembered the old peasant, Friskin and his son, Malcomb, and to repay them for saving his and his brother's life, granted them the Thanedom of Cunningham and the motto, "Over Fork Over". Scottish genealogists state that all Cunningham families are related to some degree, however, there are many Irish families who adopted the name and spelling which were similar, such as Cunninghame or Coningham.

History jumps from the 11th century to the 17th. The Cunninghams had been a noble family, but for religious and political reasons, their estate had been in decline. Our branch, the Glengarnoch Cunninghams in the mid 1600's were among them. Another family, the McGreggors, also were persecuted and were hunted down and killed. The only way to continue the McGreggor name and to protect their children, in secret, was to have the children adopted into other families. The Cunningham family was one of those chosen. These McGreggors intermarried with the Cunningham.

When the "Ulster Plantation" took place in the 1600's, our clan left Scotland and crossed the channel and entered North Ireland and later proceeded to the New World. James was my immigrant ancestor followed by his son, Jacob, and then his son, Hugh. It is thought that Hugh was the namesake of his uncle, Hugh Cunningham, B. 1708 in Ireland and emigrating to America in 1752.

In the Kerr Creek Massacre (Kerr pronounced Carr), Hugh was wounded in both raids, 1762 and 1764. In the first raid, either a sister or daughter was scalped, but lived for another twenty years, before dying from it's complications. In the second raid he lost his parents, wife and other relatives. Also in the second raid, they discovered the scalped girl and took her back to their area and paraded her through the camps, wearing her scalp as a wig. Tiring of this, they ransomed her back to her relatives.

These events occurred in Augusta County, Virginia (now West Virginia) in the vicinity of Mt. Solon near Staunton. Augusta County then extended westward, presumably to the Mississippi River. Hugh Cunningham (B. 1741) and his new wife, Elizabeth, moved south and westward to Kentucky. There were originally only three counties designated in the state: Lincoln, Woodford and Fayette.

Hugh is documented as living in Kentucky. He was in the Militia as was every able bodied man, and participated in the Battle of Blue Licks. Hugh and Elizabeth had three sons, John, Thomas and James. Little is known of Thomas. John was well documented and James was my forebear. (Of Allen H. Cunningham of Axtell, Tx.)

The Battle of Blue Licks took place in 1782. Hugh, along with nearly half of the force of the Militia, were reported killed in the battle. The bodies were not identifiable due to the deterioration, savagery of the Indians and due to the depredations of the forest animals, so all were buried in a common grave. Some accounts of the relief column were taken and they stated that the bodies were covered with logs, stones and what soil they could scrape up. Eleven of the force of the Militia were not killed, but captured by the British and Indians and taken to Canada. They were thought dead for some thirteen months until their release at Crown Point, New York after the Treaty of Paris ending the hostilities in 1783. Hugh and his fellow captives returned to Kentucky and filed claims for back pay for the duration of their incarceration. This document and the letter of their commander, Col. Todd, listing the dead in the Battle, are available at the Archive Division of the Virginia State Library at Richmond, Va.

Many attempts have been made by Allen H. Cunningham and Kenneth Blech of Kendallville, In., to get libraries to erase the death of Hugh in the Battle and also to get the right Hugh who was in the Militia. History has accredited a Hugh B. in 1708 as being slain in the battle, whereas an entirely different Hugh was there and NO HUGH WAS KILLED.

Hugh Cunningham of Kentucky lived until 1820. He was born in 1741. He resided in Woodford County near Versailles on the Kentucky River. His farm was eventually sold to the Wilson family and his family burial plot has been identified. Only field stones mark the early burials. Later, there was some inter marriage with a Hall family and these stones are legible.

James, the son of Hugh, married a Gibson and named one son Henry Gibson and a daughter, Elizabeth. Both married into the Boone family. Henry Gibson Cunningham married a Mary Ann Hammond, whose great grandfather was Benjamin Boone, a brother of Squire Boone, Daniel Boone's father. On a lineage chart, Allen H. Cunningham is a first cousin of Daniel Boone, seven times removed. Henry Gibson Cunningham's eldest son, James Hamilton Cunningham, was Allen H. Cunningham's grandfather. He is buried in Johnson County, Missouri near Warrenburg. He fought in the Civil War along with a younger brother, Lewis Allen Cunningham.

The following is an extract of a letter from Levi Todd to his brother, Captain Robert Todd. It pertains to the Battle of The Blue Licks on the Licking River near Lexington, Kentucky, then a County of State of Virginia.

Lexington, Aug. 26, 1782

On the 16th, instant, in the morning, an express arrived from Bryants Station informing us that it was suspected that a body of Indians lie around the Fort. I set off with thirty men to see if it was so, and before I got there (it being five miles distant), I was joined by 10 men from Daniel Boone. I found the place surrounded. I intended to force our way in. Seventeen of the foremost horsemen rushed in; but being attacked at the mouth of the draw, the remainder, some on horseback and ten others, were forced to retreat, leaving one man killed and having three wounded, one of whom died the next morning, but the other two will recover. Our brother being over in Lincoln, I sent an express there desiring assistance. In the meantime, the Indians made a violent attack upon Bryants Station and continued it all day and night; and a storm was expected (of the Fort?). However they met with some loss and in the morning of the 17th went off. In the evening our brother, Col. Trigg, Major Mac Gary, came with 130 men.

On the morning of the 18th we collected 182 men, all on horseback and pursued the enemy till 8 o'clock on the morning of the 19th, when we got a sight of them, forming on a ridge in a loop of the river about $3/4$ of a mile north of the low Blue Lick and over the Licking River. We had pursued about 40 miles. We rode up within 60 yards, dismounted and gave a sustained and general fire. (The next line is illegible) The left wing rushed on and gained 100 yards of ground but the right wing gave way and the enemy soon flanked us on that side, upon which the centre gave way and shifted behind the left wing and immediately those who broke in the confusion, gave way, and after the action had lasted about five minutes. Our men suffered much in the retreat, having open woods to pass through to the river and several were killed in the river. Several efforts were made to rally, but all in vain. He that could mount a horse was well off and he that could not saw a time for delay. Our Brother received a ball in his left breast and was on horseback when the men broke. He took I thought a dangerous course and I never saw him again. I suppose he never got over the river. Colonel Trigg, Major Harlin, Major Bulger, Captains McBride, Gordon, Rinkead and Overton fell upon the ground, also our friend James Brown. Our number missing is about seventy lives. I think the number of the enemy at about three hundred, but many of the men think five hundred. Col. Logan with 500 men went to the ground on the 24th and found and buried 50 of our dead men. They were all scalped and striped naked and mangled in such a manner that it was hard to know one from another. Our Brother was not known. As people in different parts of the country will be anxious to know the names of those killed, I will add a list of what I can now remember. Col. John Todd, Col. Stephen Trigg, Major Silas Haslin, Major (blur) Bulger, Captains William McBride, John Gordon, Joseph Rinkead and Cliff Overton. Lieut. William Givens, John Kennedy and - - Rogers. Ensign John Macmerty. Privates Francis McBride, John Price, James Ledgerwood, John William, Isaac MacCracken, Lewis Rose, Mathias Rose, Hugh Cunningham, Jesse Yokum, William Ladds, Evan Corn, William Smith, Henry Miller, Ezekiel Field, John Tolley, John Fry, Val Stern, Andrew MacConnell, James Brown (surveyor), William Harris, William Stewart, William Stevens, Charles Ferguson, John William, John O'Neil, John Stapleton, Dan Groggs, Lewis Green, Drury Polley, William Robertson, Gilbert Marshall, James Smith, and W. EDWARD CUNNINGHAM, SON OF ADAM CUNNINGHAM SR. AND RACHEL MORGAN

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM (B.1778) was one of the first of the pioneer settlers on Bond's Creek. He was a native of Harrison County. Later he moved to Husher's Run, where his daughter, Mary (Polly) married Elijah Husher after the death of his first wife, Elizabeth. Elizabeth was Polly's cousin and the daughter of Elijah Morgan Cunningham. Edward married Sarah Moreland, the mother of his fourteen children. Upon her death, he married a Maria (no surname known) in Pennsylvania. Maria was born in 1800. According to the census of Ritchie Co., W.Va. for 1850, his daughter, Mary's only child, Margaret Ann Husher, was living with Edward, as well as his son, James M. Elijah Husher had gone to Jay Co. Indiana and Margaret Ann followed later. It must be presumed that Mary (Polly) had died before this time (1851). Later in life, Margaret Ann Husher is said to have lived at Terre Haute, Ind..

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM B. 1778.

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM was the son of Adam Cunningham B. 1730 and the grandson of Hugh Cunningham and Nancy O'Neil. Edward was born in 1778 on the south branch of the Potomac River in Hardy County, Va. He married Sarah Moreland, the daughter of John Moreland and Catherine ??. Sarah's father, John, was born Oct. 1, 1752 and died Sept. 1836 in Clark Co., Ohio. Sarah's mother, Catherine, was born in 1755 and died sometime after 1820, possibly in Clark Co., Ohio. Sarah was born in Virginia in 1781 and died in Ritchie County, W. Va. Aug. 10, 1840. After Sarah's death, Edward married a Maria, surname unknown, born in 1800. At this time no marriage record has been found and many conjectured that the Maria Cunningham listed in the 1850 census, might have been a relative, who moved in to care for Edward and his 7 year old granddaughter, Margaret A. Husher, but in the settlement of Edward's estate, Maria was awarded a widows dower of Edward's home, all buildings and 27 acres surrounding said buildings. The award was made in February term of court, 1854. Edward died on Dec. 4, 1851.

The fact that Margaret Husher, granddaughter of Edward, was living with him in 1850 leads one to believe that her mother Mary (Polly) had died. Her father, Elijah Husher, of Husher's Run, had left and was with his brother in laws, Benjamin and Elijah Cunningham, in Jay County, Ind. In order to settle Edward's estate, they had signed a power of attorney to Jacob Husher. In Deed Book V, page 122 of Ritchie County, W. Va. It reads thus: Dated Feb. 4, 1857.

Benjamin Cunningham, Margaret X Lee, Elijah Cunningham, Elijah Husher of Noble Township, Jay Co., Ind, Power of Attorney to Jacob W. Husher of Jay County, Ind., to collect debts and sell lands in our names in the County of Ritchie, W. Va. This also indicates that Mary (Polly) Husher was dead, as her husband signed as heir instead of her. Margaret A. Husher joined her father in Indiana after her grandfather's death.

In the settlement of the estate, in Deed Book III, the following actions were recorded:

P. 138. Bond of James M. Cunningham, Isaac Cunningham and Adam Cunningham for $300 as administrators of the Estate of Edward Cunningham, deceased Jan. 6, 1852.

P. 572. Thomas X. Cunningham, Mary X Cunningham, Ruel Kelch X, Catherine XX Kelch, deeded their interest in a tract of land left by Edward Cunningham, deceased, to Isaac Lambert for the sum of $100. The above were residents of Pleasants County and acknowledged the sale before R. Hickman, Clerk of Pleasants County Court on Oct. 31, 1855. Deed filed in Ritchie County, June 10, 1856.

Deed Book V. P. 13. Adam Cunningham and his wife, Mary, to Addison Rexroad on Husher's Run, heretofor owned by Edward Cunningham, for $40, 167 acres. Edward deceased and father of Adam. April 30, 1856.

P. 14. William Cunningham and Elizabeth, his wife, to Addison Rexroad, $40 - 167 acres on Husher's Run heretofor owned by Edward Cunningham, deceased father of William Cunningham. Oct. 25, 1855.

P. 39. William and Elizabeth Gorrell, to Addison Rexroad (Elizabeth Gorrell being the daughter of Edward Cunningham, deceased) $45 acreage on Husher's Run. Nov. 20, 1855. William and Elizabeth were from Pleasants Co.

P. 89. John and Catherine Cunningham to Isaac Lambert, 250 acres on Husher's Run $40. John son of Edward Cunningham, deceased. Dec. 10, 1856.

A WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM

In researching any family record or genealogy, one tends to find only the best of the traits of our ancestors. The worse or nether side of their character is either forgotten or just not recorded. One ancestor of the West Virginia Cunningham family did kill and scalp an Indian at the raid on Harbert's Fort, where his son Joseph was captured and held captive for sixteen years. Others did not have this Cunningham heroic background.

One of these, with a less than savory reputation, was a William Cunningham who lived in Cincinnati, Ohio in the mid eighteen hundreds. William was a big raw boned Irishman who by day was a drayman. It seems that he did not make enough money in the daytime to satisfy his wants, so at night he robbed graves and sold the bodies to medical schools. He was frequently referred to as Old Man Dead and The Ghoul, but more often as "Old Cunny", not a contraction of his name, but that he was sly and cunning.

William was born in Ireland in 1807. He was a man of prodigious strength and an unquenchable thirst for hard liquor. Old Cunny was brazen in his transportation of the human bodies. He usually dressed the corpse in an old hat, coat, and trousers, sat it in the buggy and supported it with one arm while holding the reins in the other hand. If he met anyone on the way to the medical college, he would pretend that his supposed companion was drunk and would shake it and talk to it.

He also stole bodies for other localities too. In 1870 he left a large box with the U.S. Express office marked "Fragile-Glass", handle with care, C.O.D." The station agent was suspicious of William and had the box opened. It contained a negro woman already for dissection.

There was a story about William that relates how some students played a joke on him and to get even with them, he resurrected a body of a smallpox victim which he delivered to the dissection room. A number of students became infected.

The Ghoul died Nov. 2, 1871, but this was not the last of his earthly remains. Sometime during his life, he had sold his body to the Medical College of Ohio. His widow turned his body over to that school and managed to collect an extra $5 for his giant carcass. His widow promptly went into the business of grave robbing. The last that was heard of her was her arrest in 1878, along with four of her gang, for body snatching.

THE MIGRATIONS OF BENJAMIN, ELIJAH AND MARGARET CUNNINGHAM

Edward Cunningham, B. 1778, and his wife had fourteen children. Of these fourteen, three moved from what is now West Virginia, to Gallia County, Ohio and from there to Jay County, Indiana. They seemed to linger in Gallia County on their way to Indiana.

Benjamin was the eldest of the three and the first to move "west". Several of his children were born in Gallia, Ohio. In 1830 Benjamin and his wife, Margaret Cline and their children moved near the Indiana border to Fort Recovery, Ohio. Three years later they moved the few miles into Indiana and settled on forty acres in what was to be Jay County a few years later and eventually, Noble Township. They built a log house and spent the rest of their lives on this farm. It was stated that there were numerous Indians in the vicinity when they first arrived there. His son, Isaac, traded a pony to a dissatisfied settler for forty acres nearby and he settled there. Isaac was a Civil War veteran.

In the early 140's, Benjamin's younger brother, Elijah, visited him and must have liked the territory, because he too moved to Jay County shortly after his marriage to Elizabeth Cochran of Ritchie County, Wv. Elijah and Elizabeth had only two children, Marion Edward, who was born in Ritchie County, Wv., and Martin J., who was born in Gallia County, Ohio.

Margaret Cunningham, Benjamin and Elijah's sister, married John Lee of Wood County, Wv. They too moved to Jay County, Indiana. Sometime during this period of time, Elijah Husher, the husband of a deceased sister, Mary, (Polly) also came to Jay County. He is in the deed register as buying property in Noble Township, Jay County, Indiana. There is no record of Mary in Jay County and it must be presumed that she died on Husher's Run in West Virginia.

JOHN MORELAND, FATHER OF SARAH MORELAND CUNNINGHAM

The following is the application of John Moreland for a pension for service in the Revolutionary war, as told to a court judge. John and his wife, Catherine, were born in England. The writing on the records is faint and hard to decipher and our transcription may vary slightly from the original.

STATE OF OHIO, COUNTY OF CLARK:

Be it remembered that on this day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighteen, John Moreland, a citizen of Virginia by birth (this may be in error) and now a citizen of Clark County, Ohio, came before me, one of a number of appellate judges of the aforesaid County, who said, on oath, that he enlisted into the service of the United States in the Revolutionary War against Great Britain, as a private in Charles West's Company, in the 3rd Regiment, for the term of two years and which time he enlisted at Hampton, Virginia. He marched from a place undetermined to New York. He was in the Battle of York Island, then was marched from New York to White Plains, was in the Battle called White Plains, from which place he was under George Washington, as they retreated over the Delaware River.

He was then marched to Trenton and was at the taking of the Hessians at that place and then was at the Battle of Princeton. Some time afterwards he was marched to Germantown, was in the battle there and several skirmishes. The time of his enlistment, he said, was ended in March, 1776 and after faithfully serving out his term of enlistment was discharged at Valley Forge, Princeton. Which discharge he said he gave to Col. Powell to enable him to draw his (dependent ?) pay. He sold the chance for a trifle. (Note. He probably was paid in script and sold the chance of collection to Col. Powell.) Then this deponent again enlisted in the same service against the common enemy for the term of three years under Captain Sniggers in the Virginia Line, but the regiment never being fully organized, after about two years and four months, he was discharged, but by carelessness (might not be the word) lost his discharge for which service he hath not received anything, nor any pension from his country, except the small sum of about ten Pounds which he received from Col. Powell, alluded to above, and now this deponent and applicant has grown old and worn out with fatigue and hardships that he attributes to sciatica and other infirmities incident to old age, not able to labour any longer for himself and stands greatly in need of the liability of his Government as provided by a late Law of Congress, from to and subscribed before me this date and date afore mentioned.

Signed, John ^X Moreland

Ascribed by Joseph Layton
Appellate Judge

This document was followed by the usual certification of legality of the statement and the authority of the Judge. It is apparent that John Moreland could neither read nor write. This could also account for the fact that he is listed as a "Citizen by birth" of Virginia. Several other papers attribute his place of birth as England. This document also makes any descendant of Edward Cunningham and Sarah Cunningham eligible for the D.A.R., S.A.R., or any Patriotic Society.

Elijah Husher went to Jay County, Indiana with two of his brothers in law, Benjamin and Elijah Cunningham. He owned land in Jay County at one time. Margaret, his daughter, married and settled at Terre Haute, Indiana and there is where Elijah Husher spent his final years and is buried.

A BRIEF GENEALOGICAL SKETCH OF THE WADDELL FAMILY

Alexander Waddell (Colonial ancestor) was born in or near Glasgow, Scotland in 1731. He died Sept. 12, 1834. He married Elinor Rosch (Roche) of Dublin, Ireland about 1735. She died at the age of 80.

Alexander Waddell and his brother Mathew came to America in 1755 and Alexander settled in Bath Co., Va. Mathew, who was in the English Army, returned to England to finish his service and then returned to Virginia and lived in Stanton County, Va., a near neighbor to his brother Alexander. A third brother, William, settled later in New York. Nothing more is known of him, although it is rumored that he moved to Canada.

Alexander was a Revolutionary War soldier and in 1780 moved to Gallia Co., Ohio on a tract of land granted to those who served in the War. His land grant, or patent was signed by John Hancock.

Alexander was a member of the Methodist church for 71 years and a friend of John and Charles Wesley, who influenced him to become what was known then as a circuit rider, making long trips to preach to outlying groups. Alexander's grandson, John Waddell, of Richland Center, Wisc., said Alexander's circuit covered a hundred miles. He rode a big white horse and was the only minister thereabouts to officiate at weddings and funerals.

Alexander Waddell sired 12 children and had 140 grandchildren.

Alexander's children:

William Waddell -	Had 10 children
James Waddell -	Had 13 children
John Waddell -	Had 21 children
Alexander Waddell -	Had 15 children
Joseph Waddell -	Had 3 children
Isabella Waddell -	Had 1 child
Jane Waddell -	Had 12 children
Ann Waddell -	Had 15 children
Elizabeth Waddell -	Had 15 children
Mary Waddell -	Had 15 children
Sarah Waddell -	Had 15 children
Eleanor Waddell -	Had 6 children

We are not following the Waddell lineage, but the Cunningham line of Temperance Cunningham, the wife of Alexander's grandson, James. James Waddell was the son of Alexander's son John.

We are sure that any future researcher may find this a help.

K. Blech

John Waddell, son of Alexander Waddell and Elinor Roche.

Our part of the genealogy is continued on the next page with the family of James Waddell and Temperance Cunningham.

Temperance's parents were Adam Cunningham, born in Ireland, and Rachel Morgan, and maternal grandparents were John Moreland and Catherine ?. John Moreland was a Revolutionary Soldier. He was born in England. He drew a small pension for his service and died in Clark County, Ohio. John's Daughter, Sarah, was Temperance Cunningham's mother.

The preceding WADDELL information and the DONALDSON data were researched and submitted by Walter J. Hastrich of Grand Island, N.Y., a member of the Genealogical Society of New York. No relation to any one listed in this book.
K.B.

In researching the WADDELL family, Temperance Cunningham's wedding application gives her husbands name as WADDLE. The name does not appear again as that spelling in the family listing. In her daughter, Margaret's (Donaldson - Smith) obituary, the name appears as Waddell. Again the name appears in the early marriage records of Noble County, Indiana and is spelled both ways. In my correspondence I have come across the spelling of WADLE.

Isaac Cunningham was born in Gallia Co., Ohio and travelled to Fort Recovery, Ohio with his parents, when he was eight years old. The family moved three years later to Noble Township, Jay County, Ind.

Isaac was drafted into the Union Army on Oct. 22, 1864. He was mustered into the Army at Wabash, Ind. The Muster papers described Isaac as being five foot, nine inches tall, with dark hair and hazel eyes. He was turned over to the 2nd Corps at Chattanooga, Tenn. on Nov. 26 the same year. Isaac never arrived at his assigned Company near Atlanta, Ga., due to his transportation being destroyed. The Confederate Army had destroyed the railroad beyond the Fort at Dalton, Ga. He was assigned to temporary duty there, doing construction work and standing guard. The Fort was congested with men sent there for a frontal attack on the Confederates, but were unable to move because of the rail difficulties. The food was bad and so were the sanitation facilities. The Fort Hospital was jammed and overflowing with those who were simply ill, not wounded. Isaac, as were many, was afflicted with diarrhea and back troubles. He was unable to get adequate treatment and was sent home on sick leave. In his application for pension, he stated that he was treated by no less than five doctors in Portland, Indiana, Fort Recovery, Ohio and Wilshire, Ohio. He was mustered out of the Army at Camp Carrington, Indianapolis, Indiana, although his papers were issued at Louisville, Ky.

Isaac was always a farmer or so he stated in his communications with the Government. He always lived in Jay County and must have lived at various places, although postal delivery sites did change. He lists five different addresses in his applications: Fort Recovery, Ohio; Bellefountain, Ind.; Salamonie, Ind.; and Portland, Indiana were four of these addresses.

A FAMILY STORY BY BEATRICE SILVERS

Benjamin Cunningham married Margaret Kline (Cline) and moved to Indiana in 1832. The country was wild and markets were far from the homesteads. Often these farms were beset by the depredations of the still present Indians. One day Great Grandpa Benjamin had to take a load of corn and other produce of the farm to market to obtain supplies for the family.

The trading post or town was miles and days away by horse and wagon. It necessitated Grandpa Benjamin to be away for some time. The cabins of the times were small and the windows and doors were often covered by skins or boards. They were open in the day time or when it was warm. They were open in the day time and closed at night. While Benjamin was gone on this trip and when Grandma was in the closed cabin, she heard something moving slowly outside the cabin. She grabbed up the loaded gun and was prepared to shoot a redskin, when the old cow stuck her nose through the door, knocking aside the skin covering the doorway.

My father, John W. used to tell about Indian Chief Godfrey taking my grandfather, Isaac, with him on his pony when he was a baby, tossing him in the air and catching him. He begged Benjamin and Margaret to let him adopt Isaac and raise him to be an Indian chief.

Catherine Crawford first married Elisha Pyles who was of British descent. They had two children, William and Penelope. Elisha served in the War of 1812 and at its end was sent Northwest in a campaign against the Indians. He failed to return and is presumed to have been killed in a battle in 1817. Catherine moved to Ritchie County and married John Cunningham, a son of Edward Cunningham and Sarah Moreland in 1826. Penelope married against her mother's wishes and nothing more is known of her. William I. Pyles, also of her first union, married Elizabeth Cunningham, daughter of Elijah Cunningham and granddaughter of William Cunningham and Susanna Barbara Handy Shell.

Children:

Elizabeth Ann Husher was the only child of this marriage. Polly died at, or shortly after the birth of her daughter, who lived with her grandfather Edward Cunningham until his death in 1851. After this time it is assumed that she joined her father, Elijah Husher in Jay Co., Ind. Elijah's first wife was Elizabeth Cunningham, Polly's 1st cousin and daughter of Elijah Morgan Cunningham, Edward Cunningham's brother.

Elijah Husher had gone to Indiana to join two of Polly's brothers, Elijah and Benjamin. He owned land in Jay County at one time. Elizabeth Ann, his daughter, married and settled at Terre Haute, Indiana and there is where Elijah Husher spent his final years and is buried.

CEMETERY AT ELLENBORO , Wv.

There was no cemetery at the present site of Ellenboro in the mid 1800's. There had been a little cemetery near the depot and main switch. Otto Cunningham saw it many times when he was young. It may have been on railroad property. Some years ago, a timberman bought a lot of timber in the community. When it was cut, he had it hauled to the little cemetery near the railroad, there he had the head stones knocked over and set up a saw mill. In doing this, he could ship the sawn lumber out by rail and save money.

When B.F.S. Cunningham died, the people had started another cemetery at Lambert and that is where he is buried. Louisa, his wife, is buried on the Eddy farm on Goon Creek Church of Christ cemetery. Louisa was living with her daughter, Carrie, at the time of her death. The Eddy's had given the grounds for the church and cemetery many years before this.

Benjamin F.S. Cunningham's wife. Louisa, (nee Cunningham) had ~~three~~ children by him before his death, shortly after the birth of their third child, Carrie. After his death, she married a man by the name of Hammond and had eight more children by him. These eight children are also related to the Cunningham family. Her children by her second marriage would be cousins as well as half brothers and sisters to her first family.

Since writing the above article, I have received information that many of the headstones belonging to the old cemetery have been found under the old depot.

A SHORT HISTORY OF MARGARET CUNNINGHAM LEE

Margaret Cunningham's parents were Edward Cunningham and Sarah Moreland. Both were descended from men involved in America's struggle for freedom from Great Britain. It was a way for these peoples of Ireland to avenge their persecution by the English Kings. Edward was the son of Adam Cunningham, Sr., of Hardy County, Virginia and a resident of Harrison County, Virginia (now W.Va.) Sarah was the daughter of John Moreland. Her mother's name is unknown but thought to be Catherine _____. John Moreland enlisted in the Revolutionary War at Hampton, W.Va. He was a private in the 3rd Virginia Continental Line. He enlisted March, 1776, under Capt. Chas. West. He was in the battles of: York Island, White Plains, Trenton, Princeton and Germantown. He was discharged at Valley Forge. He then reenlisted for three years under a Capt. *Swiggers in the Virginia Line, and after 2 years and 4 months was again discharged.

Edward and Sarah Cunningham had 14 children. Many of these children stayed in the tri-state area of Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, but three moved gradually to Gallia County, Ohio and north westward to Ft. Recovery, Ohio and thence the few miles into Jay County, Indiana. The first to move to Indiana was Margaret and her brother Elijah and his family.

Margaret and her husband John Lee took five years in moving the distance from Ritchie County, Virginia to Jay County, Indiana. John Worked at various jobs on the way. More often as not it was a farm job.

There was a platted town of Bellefountaine several miles west of Ft. Recovery, Ohio, where these Cunninghams settled. Ft. Recovery, Ohio seemed to be a goal of these migrant people of this era. Of course it was an army post and was a protection from the Indians of the area. The Indians were already moving westward at this time and soon disappeared. There were numerous transfers of property in Bellefountaine, Ind., involving Benjamin, Elijah, Marion and other Cunningham descendents. John Lee is also named in the legal transfers. The town no longer exists as a town or legal mail drop. It is now a very attractive cluster of houses with a sign denoting the name of the community. Bellefountaine is in Noble Township, Jay County, Ind. Margaret and John Lee died and are buried in Jay County.

Margaret and John had 7 children and there is some data on most of them, but we will follow principally the family of their daughter, Rachel Lee. Rachel Lee was married several times. She had one daughter by James R. Stooksbury and three children by Jacob Fortney Isenberger. (His name as been spelled Eisenbarger.) About 1890 Jacob and Rachel moved from Coulson's Hill, near Portland, Indiana to a log cabin between Pulaski and Winnemac, Jay County, Ind. While there, they attended a Dunkard Church.

Rachel, Jacob and the children next moved to Red Key, Ind. In Red Key they operated a restaurant and a hotel, which was on the main street between two railroads. Rachel, Jacob and children, Bertice and Clara Dawn next moved to Albany, Ind. They lived in town with Jacob returning to his trade as a cabinet maker. Two of his sons by a prior marriage lived here and had a tailor shop. Here Bertice learned the tailoring trade. They lived here for two years while waiting for Harvey Isenberger, another son of Jacob by a prior marriage, to complete his general store in Paradise, Kansas. The family did move to Paradise, Kansas. The family stayed there only a year or two before Jacob, Rachel and Clara moved to Knob Noster, Mo. Bertice was in Natoma, Kansas finishing high school and working in the drug store of his half-brother, Edward. Edward had sold his tailoring business in Albany, Ind. and moved west too.

* Possibly Sniggers.

Rachel's sister, Permelia Lee McKibben, lived in Knob Noster, Mo., and wanted her sister to be with her as she was quite ill. Permelia's son, John, had a drug store and wanted Jacob to work for him. It was here that Jacob learned to be a pharmacist. He was paid $7.00 a week. The Isenberger family lived only two blocks from the McKibbens. Rachel took sick on Christmas Eve and died New Year's morning of pneumonia. She is buried in Knob Noster, Mo. Permelia's husband had died a short time earlier and after Rachel's death, Jacob and Clara Dawna moved in with her.

Jacob and Clara in the spring of 1902, after school was out, moved to Natoma, Kansas, where Jacob bought an interest in his son's (Edward) drug store. Bertice was working there at the time.

Clara Dawna Isenberger was married in the home of her half-brother, Jacob Isenberger. The license was obtained at Osborne, Kansas. She married Burton Hill, Aug. 25, 1908.

Much of the research on the Lee Family was done by the three daughters of Clara Dawna Isenberger Hill: Mrs. Faye Davis Greens, Mrs. Fern Hogue, and Mrs. Floy Hancock. They live at Topeka, Kansas and have substantiating records. They travelled widely to obtain this material.

EXCERPTS FROM A LETTER FROM CLARA ETHEL LEE IMES, RECEIVED OCT. 23, 1980

Ethel Imes is the last living granddaughter of Margaret Cunningham Lee, born in 1817. She is the daughter of William Lee, Margaret's on.

Having read your ad in the Commercial Review, the Portland Paper, I had to answer this morning. Yes, I do know a lot about the John Lee and Margaret Cunningham families. I do not have all the dates on them, but you can get them from my nephew, Arthur Lee of Ridgeville. He and another nephew, Donald Lee, have gathered a lot of data on the Lee family, from its beginning in Ireland.

John and Margaret Lee were my grandmother and grandfather, just grand parents, not great grand. Now you will say that this is impossible, but by a quirk of fate, it is true. After nine years of no children, my parents, William and Nancy Lee had me after they were both past fifty one years old. Last April 13, I was ninety-one years old. I have lived in Red Key, Ind. since my father's death in Aug. 11, 1911. He died of cancer at the age of 74. I have see Uncle Jim and Aunt Sarah and their daughter, Lillie and Uncle Anderson (Lees). It was in 1908 or 1909. My father was sick for three and a half yeras and Uncle James and family came from California and Missouri to see him and Anderson came with them. Of course there was Adam (Lee), Uncle Add, we called him. He always lived inPortland and worked in a saw mill. I've been to his house many times. My father went to see him; walked from Salamonie to Union City and took the train from there. He visited him a few days for a few days and started home. He died when Father left and somehow the news of his death arrived before Father did. Some say he died of homesickness.

There were two Lee girls that I know. Permelia, we knew her just as Aunt Millie and Rachel. All my knowledge of the Lee family came from Aunt Millie. John Lee was a very devout man and when they came to Ft. Recovery, Chio, theyhad a farm just outside and west of the Fort, where he built a large two room log cabin with a loft running the full length of the cabin. The cabin was used as a "preaching place". The circuit rider came on Saturday and held service. He stayed all night as did the other people who came from a distance to hear the preacher. The men and the boys slept together in the wagons or barn. The women and children slept in the cabin loft. They had service Sunday morning, had a big dinner at noon, had another service Sunday afternoon and then went home. Aunt Millie told of the wonderful times they had then.

One day a young Circuit Rider came and Aunt Millie married him. He was John McKibben. She told me many stories of her life. After her first child was born - called John after his father - she could not ride the circuit with him and told of the lonely Saturdays and Sundays without him, in the log cabin in the woods. After their second son was born, he was offered a church in Knob Noster, Missouri and they moved there. After their move they had two daughters. Liza married a farmer and had a son, Bill. Margaret married poorly and had two daughters.

Aunt Rachel married a man by the name of Stooksbury and had one daughter, Aunt Belle Stooksbury. He died and she next married Jacob Isenbarger and had two children: a boy, Bertice and a girl, Clara Dawna. Jacob had several sons by a previous marriage. They also went to Missouri and died and were buried there as was John W. McKibben. After her husband's death, Aunt Millie returned to Ind. She worked for and lived with older people in their homes for several years. Her son, Enos McKibben, brought his family back to Rushville, Indiana where they had four boys. They all died at Rushville. When Aunt Millie went blind, Enos took and kept her until her heath in Rushville.

My father had two cousins who lived near us after we moved near Salamonie -- a Bill Cunningham and his wife, Rachel. I knew of only one daughter that they had. The other one was Isaac Cunningham and his wife, who we called "Grandma Gamby". She was Isaac's second wife, in his later life. My people called her that as they had known her as that before he married her.

I knew of two sons that Isaac had -- George and John. They had a music store in Portland. Many, many years ago when I was a young girl, I bought my piano from them. One of them had a son, Carl Cunningham, who took over the store and ran it until he died. He never married. It was then sold to a man named Waltz who still has it.

I have three sons: Schknowl, Everett and Philip. My husband was Rufus Imes. We celebrated our Golder Wedding anniversary one year before his death. Schknowl has two sons, Everett has no children and Philip has three boys. I have one great grandson and two great granddaughters.

One more thought; Uncle Jim's daughter married a Thomas Goodson. They have five children; three girls and two boys. I have been in their home several times, years ago.

EXCERPTS FROM A LETTER FROM ETHEL IMES, DATED NOV. 7, 1980

More on the life of Permelia Lee --

Aunt Millie was a vivid story teller and history was my favorite subject, I always absorbed her stories. This story is about Aunt Millie's home of her youth, The Preaching House. The house was built just outside Ft. Recovery. It was a large two room log house with a loft over both rooms. The left had four small windows high under the roof. It is still standing. It is covered with a gray siding and an addition has been made in the rear.

The last of the week at the house was a busy one. They had a fire place and pots and skillets for the family's use, but for the gathering for "The Preaching" a large iron kettle - a butchering kettle as we know it today - was scoured clean and used. The meals were cooked out of doors. They also had an out door oven, that they did all their baking in. It was outside the kitchen door. I remember Aunt Millie saying it was enclosed and probably had a roof. On a Saturday morning, Aunt Millie's father, John Lee, would butcher a lamb, hog or occasionally a veal calf for the people coming and for the use of the family later. In the summer time, it would be chicken and noodles or just meat and potatoes and what ever was fixed extra for Sunday dinner. If the weather was nice, it was served outside on board trestles set up in the yard. Friday was a busy day for the women. They baked lots of bread, cakes and pies for everyone. Saturdays supper was either fried meat or a roast. The people came Saturday for an afternoon service and stayed until Sunday afternoon. For Sunday breakfast there was fried eggs in season. It was seldom that eggs were available in the cold weather. The chickens did not have the care or warmth. They ran more or less wild on the homestead. You "gathered" eggs. They were scattered through the available buildings, mostly in the mangers in the barn where the chickens roosted for the night. Everyone brought something to help with the meals. They also brought horse feed. They came in wagons, spring wagons and on horse back.

There were few roads and they were rough. Many walked from quite a distance. The women and children slept in the loft of the house and the men and boys slept in the wagons on the hay they had brought for the horses, or if the weather was bad or cold, they slept in the barn.

Aunt Millie enjoyed great times at these meetings and then the young Circuit Rider came and she married him. They knew of a small cabin in the side of a woods. It had a small clearing. It also had a road cut through the woods so that a wagon could get through. Most travel of the time was done on horse back, because of the scarcity of roads. They moved there and all was perfect until one Saturday, when it was time to leave for the "Preaching". She could not fasten her dress. It was her wedding dress and the only one she could wear to church or away from home. She was "expecting", and since she had no dress she had to stay at home by herself and how she missed the company and the good times.

It is here that she always took time for a good laugh. One Sunday she was so lonesome and home sick and she went out in the garden. She had always been told that if you ate raw cucumbers and drank milk, you would die, so she looked at the cucumbers and wanted to eat some. She gathered quite a few and went to the house to eat them. She said they were so good that she ate several and then drank her milk. She said she did not care if she did die, she was so lonesome and miserable. She said she had never felt better than she did the rest of the day.

They seldom ever got a piece of money. If he, her husband, John McKibben, got 2 or 3 quarters, or a 50¢ piece, it was simply great. He seldom came home without a load tied on behind his saddle. He brought home all kinds of meat, chickens, eggs, lard, flour, meal and anything else that could be used to "pay the preacher." They all had enough to eat. So John was born. She could always carry him on horse back, but then Enos was born. She could not carry both children and their necessities, so she had to stay home. Her husband could not help with the children, he had his horse loaded down with pay; the food. She and the babies had to stay home from Saturday morning until Sunday night and sometimes until Monday noon if the weather was bad. By that time she had concluded that she had not done too well in marrying the young Circuit Rider, but then they received a call to a permanent church at Knob Noster, Missouri, where they had a great life.

Grandmother Margaret Lee was a hard taskmaster - she worked her boys hard. Dad and Mom (William Lee and Nancy Isenhardt) lived there for a while after their marriage, until they could take it no more. When Mom began carrying Theodore, she never missed an afternoon riding her horse in to Ft. Recovery. She stayed all afternoon unless the weather was bad enough to make her late. She had much to do, and if it was not done and supper started, she caught it from her mother in law, Margaret. Aune Millie said the same thing. The hard work and the discipline was also the reason that Joseph (Permelia's brother) ran away and joined the Army so young, where he died.

JOHN LEE -- MARGARET (CUNNINGHAM) LEE

John Lee was born July 15, 1811 in Ireland, and according to an old map of Ireland (Margaret Moore has the map), He could have been born in the County of Galway, southwest tip of Ireland, which County was well populated by Lees.

He came to America as a young man and settled in West Va. It is assumed that his family came over at the same time, but we have been unable to find their names.

John, hearing of the great opportunities and the low price of land on our western frontier of Ohio and Indiana, decided to go west. He had not traveled far in Virginia until he came to a river too wide and deep to cross. While looking for a suitable place to cross, he came to a ferry boat landing. It was not long until he noticed activity at the dock on the other side of the river, a boat operated by a young lady came over and ferried him across. Her family operated the ferry, her name was Margaret Cunningham.

The family learning that he was going through to Ohio and as it was late in the afternoon, invited him to spend the night with them. He stayed for more than one night and worked for the Cunninghams. On April 11, 1832 he married Margaret Cunningham, the lady who had ferried him across the river. Margaret was born February 18, 1817, the daughter of Edward and Sarah (Moreland) Cunningham. She was one of a family of eight girls and six boys, who were born in Ritchie County, W. Va.

John and Margaret had eight children: Permelia, William, James, Joseph, Rachel, Adam, Anderson and John. In 1844 they came through in a covered wagon to Fort Recovery, Ohio. They purchased 160 acres of land from the government, 2 miles west of Ft. Recovery in Noble Township, Jay County, Indiana, for $1.25 an acre. There he cleared some land and built a cabin. The first year that he farmed this land, he plowed up a muzzle loading rifle barrel. He took it to the gunsmith, C. P. Vantrees, at Fort Recovery and had it cleaned and restocked. This gun has been passed down to Arthur E. Lee complete with leather pouch, powder horn, bullet mould, and deer horn tip to measure the powder. The gun is still in good shooting condition.

John passed away August 6, 1855, age 44 years and 21 days. Margaret died December 6, 1862, age 45 years, 9 months and 18 days. They are both buried in the Lotz Cemetery, southeast of Salamonina. Several years ago, the fence surrounding the cemetery had been removed and the farmer's cattle, seeking shade, (there being no other trees in the pasture) knocked over all the markers, some of them being broken to pieces. The Portland, Ind., paper published a picture of the cemetery, showing its condition and the cattle. As public opinion grew, the Trustee, in 1971 erected a new fence and a large marker, listing all the names of the people buried there. The only stone standing today is that of John and Margaret Lee. It has had to be erected several times. The Abraham Lotz stone, veteran of the War of 1812, will soon be replaced by members of his family.

Benjamin and Margaret (Cline) Cunningham, brother and sister-in-law of Margaret Lee, also came to Indiana. They are buried in the new part of the Salamonina Cem.

WILLIAM LEE -- NANCY (ISENHART) LEE

William Lee, son of John Lee and Margaret Cunningham, was born July 12, 1837 in Ritchie County, West Virginia. Nancy Isenhardt Lee, his wife, was the daughter of William Isenhardt and Mary Glassford. She was born October 1, 1837 in Madison Township, Jay County, Indiana.

William and Nancy were married August 29, 1859 in Jay County. They lived the first two years with his parents, during this time they built a log cabin, where they set up house keeping. William later purchased a farm nearby, sometime later he sold this farm and bought 250 acres in Pulaski County. This land proved to be of little value, so he sold it and moved his family to Red Key, Indiana. They lived two years at Red Key at the third house east of the Methodist Church and then one year in the south east part of Red Key in the Dave Ralston property. The next move was to the Adam Lee farm, west of Salamonia, for a year, while Adam and Chester traveled with the Barnum and Bailey Circus. Chester was born without arms and his legs never fully developed, but he could do anything with his feet that a normal person could do. He fed himself and his penmanship was very good. He was educated, having gone through the eight grades and repeating some of it, to procure more knowledge.

Nancy inherited part of her father's farm and they moved there, west of Salamonia. This was a very good farm, buildings were good and located on a hill, the house was built in 1842, when Nancy was only five years old. It had an orchard to the front and a long lane to the road lined on both sides by locust trees. The road west to the Salamonia River had been lined with walnut trees and across the river on a hill stood Lookout School.

Nancy and William Lee were the parents of 10 children: William Theodore born January 25, 1862; Adam L. born November 10, 1863; John born October 25, 1865; Charles born February 20, 1868; Arthur born April 1, 1870; Florence Emma Retta born September 17, 1872; Harvey Wilson born January 13, 1875; Martin Joseph born May 28, 1877; Margaret Jane born August 28, 1880; and Clara Ethel born April 13, 1889. All the children were born in Madison Township except Clara Ethel, she was born in Pulaski County.

Arthur was the first child to pass away, he was a barber in Star City, Indiana. He died November 16, 1893 at the age of 23 years, 7 months and 15 days. His grave is in the Star City Cemetery. In later years, his brothers Charles, Martin and Theodore had a marker installed on the grave site. Margaret Jane passed away the next March 5, 1894 at the age of 13 years, 6 months and 7 days. Her grave and marker are at the Fairview Cemetery, east of Albany, Indiana on S.R. 28.

William passed away at the home place on August 9, 1911 at the age of 74 years and 27 days. His wife, Nancy, and daughter, Clara Ethel then moved to Red key to the first house north of the Martin Joseph Lee house on North Meridian Street. Harvey Wilson Lee and his family then moved to the home farm. Nancy passed away September 23, 1917 at the age of 79 years, 11 months and 22 days. They are both buried in the north east part of Salamonia Cemetery.

WILLIAM ISENHART AND MARY GLASSFORD ISENHART

William Isenhardt came to America with his two brothers from Germany. They first settled in Carolina, then later Fred and William settled near Fort Recovery, Ohio. On October 23, 1835 William purchased 40 acres of land from the government at their land office in Fort Wayne, Indiana. In Montgomery's History of Jay County, this was the tenth entry of land in Madison Township. He later purchased another 120 acres. This land was a little over a half mile west of Salamonia, 120 acres on the north side of the road and the 40 acres on the south side.

He built his log cabin on the north side of the road and back some distance from where in 1842, he built the more modern house closer to the highway. His daughter, Nancy, was five years old at the time. It still stands.

He married Mary Glassford and to this union was born three sons and three daughters; John, Burdine, George, Nancy, Mary and Jane. Later when the land was divided, George received the forty acres on the south side of the road. Nancy received sixty acres on the north side and Burdine received the east sixty acres on the north side. When Burdine started to build his house, in digging the well he was overcome by gas and died. His youngest son, Wilson, lived several years with William and Nancy Lee. Later he lived with his grand parents, William and Mary Isenhardt.

William and his brothers, after coming to America, changed the spelling of their last name from Izenhart to Isenhardt, changing the letter "z" to "s". Years later their family in Germany left quite a fortune, but they were unable to get their share due to the change in the spelling of their name.

William Isenhardt was born December 25, 1810 and passed away June 4, 1897, age 86 years, 5 months and 9 days. His wife, Mary Glassford was born February 18, 1807. She died October 1, 1876, age 69 years, 9 months and 13 days. Both William and Mary are buried in the old part of the Salamonia Cemetery.

On August 14, 1877, William Isenhardt married Elisabeth Jetter. In a letter to his son, March 22, 1886, he stated that he and his wife were living in Union City, Indiana. In a letter to his daughter, Nancy Lee, he stated that his grandson, William Isenhardt and his wife were living with him. Wilson was the son of Burdine and Nancy Isenhardt. The letter to Nancy Lee was dated March 4, 1888.

The Levi and Mary (Isenhardt) Ketterman children live near Hartford City and Burdine's family, north of Portland. Levi and Mary and daughter, Etter Ketterman, and Margaret Lee, daughter of William and Nancy Lee, are buried in the Fairview Cemetery east of Albany, Indiana on State Road 28 in the south east part of the cemetery.

JOSEPH LEE, SON OF MARGARET CUNNINGHAM AND JOHN LEE

B. 1842 D. 1865

Joseph Lee was a Drummer Boy in the Civil War at the age of 14. He became ill and died at the close of the War. He was first buried at Nashville, Tennessee, but was later moved by his cousins to the Lotz Cemetery at Salamonia, Indiana, and was buried near his parents, John and Margaret Lee. He has no marker on his grave. The Cemetery was ruined by cattle grazing in it. The monuments were nearly all upset and broken. The Township Trustee had a new fence erected and a large monument put up, listing most of the people burined in the old cemetery. John Lee's marker is the only one standing today.

ABOUT THE MEETING AND MIGRATING OF MARGERET CUNNINGHAM AND JOHN LEE, AS TOLD BY MARGARET'S DRANDDAUGHTER, CLARA DAWNA ISENBERGER.

This tale is family lore, handed down orally and taped by Clara Dawna's three daughters in her last years. It may vary slightly from other family accounts. It has been edited for continuity and accuracy. Margaret Cunningham was the daughter of Edward Cunningham and Sarah Moreland of Virginia, later to be Ritchie County, West Virginia. They may not be denoted by name in this family story.

You see it was just after the war (Revolution) and there were few men around, so in a joke, great grandmother said to her three grown daughters that whoever would churn the butter that morning, and they had only one cow -- maybe they had one cow that was fresh and had a baby calf -- whoever would churn the butter could have the buttermilk, just, you know, thinking -- well there wasn't any men around, don't you know, and she was being kind of cute. So Margaret, being the youngest and a happy-go-lucky girl, grabbed up the churn and said, "Well, watch me..." (Buttermilk for her young man).

That's all I know about that. So Margaret went down the path to this little stream that was fed by a spring and before it came out of the rocks, formed a pool with a rock ledge where they kept their butter, milk and cream, but to get to it Margaret had to take off her shoes. So Margaret took off her shoes and sat them on the bank, waded into the stream and washed the churn in the cold spring water, because, you know, that makes the butter come quicker. Then she took the crock from the ledge and put the cream in the churn and all the time she was churning the butter, she was singing and whistling to herself. As she stopped to look at the cream, she stopped whistling, and some one on the other side of the stream said "Good morning". There stood the man that was to become her husband. He said "I am looking for Edward Cunningham." She said, "That is my father." He said, "Where is he?" She said, "Out in the barn." (That is where the men were all week except when they ate their meals.) He looked at the water and Margaret said, "You better take off your shoes." He took off his shoes, crossed the stream, picked up the churn and they went up the path to the house, carrying their shoes. When they came to the house, Margaret said that her father was in the barn, so he put on his shoes and went there.

That is the last she saw of him until dinner time, when her father came into the house bringing the stranger with him. He introduced him and said that he would be eating with them this noon. After dinner, they returned to the barn and at the evening meal great grandfather said that the young man was going to spend the night and help him tomorrow. I don't know just what it was, but perhaps build a fence or repair something. Since they did not have but a kitchen and living quarters in the cabin, the three girls had to climb up in the cabin loft to sleep. So great grandma gave him a blanket or something and great grandpa went out to the barn with him to get him settled for the night. He stayed all night, but came in for breakfast, and then left the next day after dinner. The next day he came back along towards evening and talked with great grandfather and great grandmother came into the house and said, "Margaret, the young man wants to talk to you." Margaret was surprised. I guess she was the only one that was full of life. Anyway she was the youngest. She went out, thinking that her father was playing a joke on her. She went out singing and whistling and sure enough there he was. It was just getting dusk and he asked her to walk down the lane with him. It was more a path, but they called it a lane. As they walked along he asked her to marry him. Now that is all that she had ever seen of him, so she said, "I think I ought to talk it over with my father." He said, "It's all right, because I have already asked him." She said "I'll think about it over night" and he said that it was alright and that he would be back in three or four days and pick her up. She went back to the house and told the family and right away great grandma began to make preparations. She made Margaret three dresses and they knotted a wool comforter for her. Great grandmother also made her two sheets and two pillows that she stuffed with the geese feathers that they had saved from the geese they had raised. Her sisters began to tease her and asked how she knew he was coming back. She said "He will, I know he will." Sure enough in three or four days he came. There was no place for them to get married and no one to send word to, so they planned to go to a man who acted as justice of peace.

Great grandma gave her a side of bacon, potatoes, brown sugar, flour and many of the things that they had. On the fourth or fifth day they were ready to leave. They had not known just what he had or what form of transportation he had, but he appeared with a team of horses and a wagon and in the wagon he had a couple of horse blankets, and a big iron skillet. Aunt Lyde (Lydia) McKibben said it was big enough to cook a whole meal in it. Well, anyway, when they were ready to leave, Great grandfather gave her this cow that they had that had the calf they had just weaned. They tied the cow on to the back of the wagon and went into the house to tell everyone good bye. Grandfather was very religious and prayed over them for their safe journey, but her two sisters were gone out into the cornfield as they were angry that she, the youngest, was picked rather than one of them.

By the end of the first days travel they reached the man who married them. I think they stayed the night in his yard and the next morning they got up and started on their way. As they would travel along past the different farms on the way, Grandfather (John Lee) would work a day or so for whatever food or supplies they needed. After they were a few days on their journey they camped in the woods and Grandpa made a little tentlike shelter for his new wife while he went to a nearby farmstead to see if they were on the right trail. He did not want to get too far from the beaten path because not all the trails of the time gave passage for a wagon and team. Most of these trails were merely paths or trails through the forests that were just wide enough for the passage of men on foot or a horse. Most travel was by horse back. Of course it was dark in the woods, but before he came back it was quite dark. Grandmother was a bit afraid all alone in the woods, but thought that she would sit in her little shelter and wait for her husband. She laid down and waited for sometime when she heard a noise. She thought it must be grandfather returning, but he did not come. Pretty soon she heard the noise again and began to really become uneasy. Finally she thought she heard someone flip back the flap of the little tent, made of horse blankets, and she covered her head -- she was sure it was Indians. She thought if she would just cover her head maybe they wouldn't see her, but she had to get her breath and so uncovered her head and listened. Yes, there was someone out there. She listened-- the tent flap was being moved. She had lain there what seemed so long, so she got on her knees and crept to the door and put out her hand right into the old cow's mouth. Grandpa came right at this time and saw the last bit about the cow, so he always told the story of how he returned and found his new wife kissing the cow.

It took them five years to get from Ritchie County, W. Va., to Fort Recovery,

Ohio, and thence to Jay County, Indiana. Often they would spend a year growing grain for their own use and for the animals. Sometimes he, grandpa, would work for a widow for sometime. Often when they got off the main trail, he would have to bridge a stream or cut a trail through the dense growth of the woods.

Elijah Cunningham was born in northwest Virginia (now West Va.), either in Harrison or what is now Ritchie Co., W.Va. His marriage permit is registered at Harrisville, W.Va., Ritchie County seat. The 1850 census of Ritchie Co., W.Va., lists him as a farmer with his wife, Elizabeth, and son, Marion. The 1860 census of Jay County Indiana, lists him as a shoemaker with his wife, Elizabeth and sons Marion Edward born in Virginia, and Martin born in Ohio. Marion Edward was born in Virginia (now W.Va.) but grew to manhood in Jay County, Ind. He died at his son's house in Kendallville, Ind., but is buried in Jay County. Martin J. was born in Ohio and moved to Jay County with his parents as a baby. He was struck by lightning and killed at age 23. He was studying to be a doctor. He is buried near his parents in Jay County, six miles north of Bellefontaine, Ind. Bellefontaine is six miles east of Portland, Ind., and is now only a cluster of houses with a sign noting its name.

On a trip to Portland, Indiana, the Jay County seat, to do research on the family, the fact that the government had very little to do with your life, was thrust upon us. Before the twentieth century, the Department of Health or the County Clerk had practically no data on births and deaths. The Clerk's office did register marriages as soon as the counties were formed. The actual marriages were recorded only if the permits were returned. Many permits were issued and no marriage occurred. The court house of those days was built of wood and nearly all had fires, destroying records. This happened at Portland and only a few envelopes of records were salvaged from the ruins. We did find the application for marriage of Martha V. Cunningham to Arizona Houser, mostly through the courtesy of the employees of the Clerk's office. They had been wet and were very brittle, and kept in a safe and were not for use of the public. The births and deaths, before 1900, were not registered at the county seat unless the parents of the new born or the survivors of the deceased chose to do so, or unless the attending physician chose to do so - he was not required to do so by law until 1900.

On this trip we did find the death registration of my great grandfather, Elijah Cunningham. He was attended in death by his son, Marion, no doubt at his home just west of New Corydon. The cause of death was given as kidney trouble. The reason for looking up his record was to find the names of his parents, but those names were not given. His burial place was given as Mount Zion Church, six miles north of his former home at Bellefountaine, Indiana.

When we arrived there, we found an old brick church, built in 1850 across the road from the cemetery. This was no doubt the church attended by the Cunninghams, and it is still in use today. The cemetery is long and narrow, running south from the church. When we inquired about the records of the church, we found they were in Portland at the pastor's home. The records of the cemetery were kept by the members of the parish, but they did not show the burial place in the cemetery before 1900, only who was buried there. The burials are few now -- because often when digging a grave they break into an unregistered grave. The cemetery is divided into two parts by a low spot. The north part is the oldest, with nearly all the head stones made of sand stone, which is still quarried close by and was more economical to use. The stones are very eroded by the elements and some are nearly illegible. Even the rain will eventually wear away the lettering.

In the north section we found the grave of Martin J. Cunningham, the brother of my grandfather, Marion. Martin was born Aug. 1856 and was killed by lightning on Aug. 12, 1879. Nearby was the grave of Marion Cunningham's first wife, Matilda E. (McNutt) Cunningham, my grandmother. She died Oct. 15, 1872 at the age of 34 years, 7 months and 14 days. My father, George, was only 9 months old at her death. At the side of her stone was a small sandstone marker listing the site as the grave of the infant daughter of M.E. and M.E. Cunningham. This was quite a surprise as no one had ever said that my father had a sister that died before his birth.

The south section of the cemetery held the grave of my great grandmother and the wife of Elijah Cunningham. She died Oct. 20, 1896. Her stone is also sandstone and is eroding. Buried next to her we believe is her husband, Elijah. The stone marker is sandstone and has only the initials E.C. The department of health at Portland lists him as being buried here at Mr. Zion.

Grandpa Marion is buried in a small cemetery just west of what was Jay City and only a half mile from where he lived. He lies next to his second wife, Louisa, the mother of their daughter, Martha V. Their marker is a large fieldstone put there by Grandpa. The stone is also eroded as to be nearly illegible.

Nearby is the grave of their daughter, Martha, and her husband Philip Arizona Houser. The head stone has her listed as Mattie V., the name she always used. This little cemetery has many, many of the antecedents and ancestors of Philip Arizona. Perhaps they founded it. All the very early stones are those of Macklins and Housers, his forebears.

My father was George Cunningham. His father was Marion E. Cunningham and his mother was Matilda E. McNutt. He was born in the little village of Bellefountain, Indiana. His mother died when he was 9 months old. Grandpa's second wife was Louisa Dickes. She was the mother of my father's only sister, Martha Victoria Cunningham Houser. I have no recollection of Louisa as she died when I was small. My father said that she was the typical stepmother. Several years after Louisa died, Grandpa married Johanna McLaughlin, a widow. I remember her as a kind person -- not necessarily loving. Marguerite, my sister and I visited Grandpa two times, staying a week each time. A family friend and neighbor would take us to Geneva and Grandpa would get us with his horse and surry with the fringe on top. Father would come down on the train to take us home.

As a young man, my grandfather Cunningham, was a carpenter, a builder of houses and barns. He also moved buildings. He was a very religious man and was superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church in New Corydon. The pulpit in this church was built by him. As he grew older, he moved to a ten acre farm just west of Jay City, Indiana and New Corydon. The village of Jay City is now only one house. The little farm was on the banks of the Wabash River. I remember one Saturday when my sister and I were to return home the next day. We were playing on the banks of the little river. We had taken our baths and had on our clean clothes. The Housers, our cousins, had come to visit and we had gone to the river to play. The clams were thick in the riverbed and one of our cousins said that his father had found a pearl in one. We gathered our dresses full to take to the house to open and get the pearls. Grandma found us and needless to say, we found no pearls and our clothes were very wet and dirty. Well, Grandma said we couldn't go home as we had no clean clothes. Washing wasn't easy then. She had to use a tub and a washboard. We went to bed two sad little girls because we weren't going home with our Daddy the next day. However, when we arose the next morning, our clean clothes were laid out on a chair next to the bed.

When Grandpa lived on the ten acres, he kept a horse, a cow, some chickens, and raised a pig for his winter's meat. He raised enough hay and corn to feed the animals. He had a large and what seemed a wonderful garden. In this garden he raised all the normal vegetables, potatoes, yams and celery, which I saw growing for the first time. He sold the excess. As he grew older, he relied on the farm for his livelihood. His cash crops were strawberries and blackberries. With these monies he bought all his staple foods, paid his church dues and clothed himself and Grandma.

When he was in his eighties, Grandpa, upon the insistence of Grandma, moved to Portland where he worked at odd jobs in an egg processing plant. Later Grandma insisted that he move in with relatives. He moved in with Luetta Houser Miller, his granddaughter and my cousin, but when my father heard of it, he went to the Millers and brought him to his home in Kendallville, where he died in 1935 at the age of 88. I have no idea what happened to "Grandma", my father's stepmother.

When my father was twelve, he was sent to work for the neighboring farmers. He worked by the month for a very small amount of money, which his father collected. He soon tired of this arrangement and when he was old enough, he struck out on his own, ending up in Avilla, Indiana, where he worked on the railroad as a section hand.

It was here that he met my mother, Margaret Mary Mattern. Her parents were German immigrants, George and Martha Mattern. Later, they changed their name to Martin and that is the name that all of their children used.

Shortly after their marriage, my parents moved to Kendallville, Indiana, where my father was employed by the McCray Refrigerator Company. Prior to World War I, he was City Marshall. During that war he had unsuccessful venture in farming, but returned to Kendallville and employment by that city as street Commissioner, a position he held until his death. He died at his home in 1946.

Philip Arizona Houser and Mzrtha Victoria Cunningham were born and died in Jay County, Indiana. All their children were also born there. Luetta married Homer Miller, a farmer, and lived nearly all their lives near Berne, Indiana. Cleo Margaret Houser married Andrew Fickert and first lived in Kendallville, Ind. I believe this is where their first son was born. They probably came to Kendallville because that is where Cleo's uncle George Albert Cunningham lived. They later moved to the Dayton - Vandalia area in Ohio, where they lived the rest of their lives. Kenneth Houser always lived near Jay County, Indiana, where he was a part-owner and operator of a stone quarry. Marion Houser moved to Goodland, Kansas, where he was employed in the banking business. Adam Houser was in the hardware business at the time of his death. Clarence Houser also was in business, in Celina, Ohio at his demise. Most of the early records of the Houser family are in Jay County, Indiana.

Aaron Smith was born Mar. 23, 1753 at Trenton, N.J. He was the eldest son of James Smith and Anne Parke. He had one brother and a half sister, Elizabeth Smith.

Aaron decided, when just a young man that he would like to go west in search of adventure and a home in the frontier, and set out on horseback to blaze a trail over the many mountain ridges leading westward. His sole support on the trip was his rifle, which was also his protection, and what little he could pack behind his saddle. After many arduous and adventurous days he came upon a level and thickly wooded area, which he felt would make an ideal home site when cleared. He blazed out a sizable area and built a very comfortable log cabin. He later obtained a grant for this land where Smith Chapel now stands on Simpson Creek, now Clarksburg, W.Va. After he had built his home, he returned to civilization and married Sarah Allen and after a honeymoon through the mountains, riding double on his horse, they went back to the cabin on Simpson Creek, where they cleared the forest away and raised crops for their use and the use of their family that they raised there.

THE WILLIE LEE MORTON FAMILY STORY

Hugh and Nancy Cunningham emigrated to America in 1752 with their eight sons and settled on the South Branch of the Potomac River in Fairfax County, Va.

Hugh's eldest son, Adam Sr., married Rachel Morgan and to this union was born ten children. Adam Cunningham Jr. was the youngest of the ten and married Sarah Sinnet. Adam was born in 1793 and Sarah was born in 1788. The 1850 census lists him as a farmer. They had six children. Both are probably buried in unmarked graves in the Charles Meyers Cemetery.

Sarah Sinnett's father, Patrick, B. 1752 D. 1850, was also of Irish birth. He had worked as a King's waiter for seven years and disliked his job. One day, on impulse, he boarded a ship bound for the colonies and was forced to work for three years to pay for his passage. He served in the Revolution at the Battle of Pleasant Point in 1774. Later he fought in the Battles of Jamestown and Yorktown. In the Battle of Pleasant Point, he served under the direct command of General Andrew Lewis, whose militiamen repulsed a massive attack by the Indians under Chief Cornstalk, a skillful strategist. Patrick Sinnett died in Wood County, Virginia (W.Va.) at the age of 98.

Adam Jr., and his wife, Sarah, had a daughter Phebe, who married Ephraim Cunningham, her third or fourth cousin, in 1849 and they had nine children. My aunt, Laurie Nicholson, recalls that Phebe smoked a clay pipe and died from a broken hip suffered in a fall while she was drying apples.

Continuing family tradition, Ephraim and Phebe also named a daughter Phebe, who did house work for the Murellis Jackson family, slave owners, who reportedly lived in a haunted house. Phebe often claimed to hear ghosts walking at night as she hid under the bed covers.

In 1885 Phebe Ann Cunningham married William Deem. These were my grandparents. Our family has fond memories of Grandpa Deem as a farmer, proud of his two beautiful white horses. He was also manager of Ritchie County Poor Farm for five years. Grandma Phebe was a wonderful cook, specializing in biscuits and blackberry jam. They had five children and I was named for their only son, William McKinley Deem, who died at the age of 29.

Their daughter, Bertha, was my mother. She was born in 1891 and died in 1972. In 1918 she married William Levi Morton (1891-1968), an oil field worker, who was born in Green County, Pa., and later settled in Ritchie County.

My father's parents were Morgan Morton and Ida Harden. My Grandfather Morgan was nicknamed "Blinky". Grandfather was an oil field worker and also a Ritchie County farmer. "Blinky" parted his hair up the middle and always wore too large shoes that turned up in the toes. He was a confirmed Democrat and his favorite saying was "By Jove!"

Both of "Blinky's" parents and "Blinky" were born in Fairchance, Pa. His father, Robert Morton was born in 1819 and died in 1895. His mother, Elizabeth Loar, was born in 1822 and died in 1902. Robert Morton lived for 25 years in Ritchie County as a farmer. According to my sister, Frances Ayres, Elizabeth was "full blooded Dutch and as thick as she was long" and according to my mother, she was born "coming over the water."

I was born in Devil's Hole, near Ruthford, and have six brothers and sisters, three of whom still reside in Ritchie County. They are: Lawrence Morton, Oleta Nutter, and Kenneth Deem. The others are: Frances Ayres of Parkersburg, Grace Adams of Grantsville and Virgil Morton of Clover.

I retired from the United States Air Force in 1973 and following Morton tradition, settled in Pennsylvania since I married a Yankee. My wife, the former Myrna Jean Wingert, I and our two sons, Jeffery Lee and Jonathan Levi, live on a small farm near Gettysburg, Pa. We make an annual visit to Ritchie County and we are still trying to learn more about our family history.

Compiled and submitted by Willie Lee and Myrna Jean Morton.

AN HISTORICAL ACCOUNT OF THE BATTLE OF BLUE LICKS

The British Captain Caldwell, the British Indian envoy, Alexander McKee and Indiana Chieftain, Joseph Brant, with 50 British Redcoats and a thousand Indians were on their way to destroy the fort and settlement at Wheeling, Virginia when they were diverted to Bryas Station (really Bryant's Station) six miles north of Lexington, Kentucky. The Indian Allies, of the British, were reluctant to go so far south of their Ohio homes and all but 240 of them deserted back to Ohio. These 240 and the British attacked the fort at Bryas Station on Aug. 16, 1782. Two men of the fort escaped the attack and fled to alert the pioneer forces at Lexington, Harrodsburg, Boonville, Danforth and Stanford. The siege of the fort only lasted two days, with unexpected resistance, and when Daniel Boone arrived with a force of two hundred men, the British and the Indians retreated to the Blue Licks on the Licking River. Hence the name, the Battle of Blue Licks. Revolutionary Colonel Todd pursued the enemy and when he divided his men into smaller units, many of his force of 193 men were killed by ambush and guerrilla tactics.

THE TOMAHAWK LAW OF ACQUIRING LAND

Edward, Thomas, Walter and Adam Cunningham, sons of Hugh Cunningham, laid claim to huge tracts of land on Bingamon Creek in Cunningham Run and the surrounding area, under the "Tomahawk Law." The State of Virginia rewarded its veterans of the Revolution with this Act. Virginia paid its soldiers $3 a month and they called themselves "Dime-a-Day Men." These Veterans could claim the land of their choice by walking the outer limits of their claims and blazing the trees with their tomahawks, to make the boundaries. These claims were meant to comprise about a thousand acres and to be marked in one days walk. More often than not, these claims were much larger and when the surveyors finally came to legalize the claims, there were many disputes, because of overlapping and duplicate boundaries.

Cunningham Run is marked today by a modern road sign at its entrance off a state road near Clarksburg, W.Va.

Family Lore About Hugh Cunningham's Death

I am not satisfied with the information on the death of my ancestor, Hugh Cunningham, born in 1708, as given by the Virginia State Archives. This could not have been the Hugh Cunningham that was the father of Adam Cunningham and my ancestor, Walter.

According to my Grandfather, Barnett Foley Cunningham, and also my Great Aunt Phebe, the daughter of Ephraim Cunningham, Hugh was not in the militia when he was killed. Barnett and Phebe were the grandchildren of Walter and Great Grandchildren of Hugh. These grandchildren were told by Walter that Hugh was in Kentucky to see about the purchase of some land. While he was there the attack on Bryant's Station occurred. He was supposedly killed as he assisted in its defense, not in the Battle of Blue Licks, as stated in one document in the Archives at Richmond, Va.

Philip Roger Parker

About the Seige of Bryant's Station

The seige of Bryant's Station started on Aug. 16, 1782 and ended at dark on Aug. 17, 1782. History states that the British and Indians were surprised by the resistance put up by the occupants of the fort, and pulled back on the late afternoon of the 17th. They were pursued throughout the night to the spot of the Battle of Blue Licks by a hastily assembled force of the Virginia Militia. There was a Hugh Cunningham, but he was captured, not killed in this battle.

At the seige of Bryant's Station, there was no one actually killed in the battle, only a few wounded in its defense. There were two men killed in the surrounding corn fields, before the occupants knew of the enemy's presence, but they were not Hugh Cunningham, but natives of the area. There is ample documentation of this encounter and nowhere is a Cunningham mentioned.

There were several unidentified Cunningham males killed by the Indians in the area of Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia. For some reason their given names were not given, therefor we cannot claim that any one of them was "our" Hugh Cunningham.

Edward and his wife,Sarah, whom he married in Fairfax County,Wv. lived and died in Harrison County where they "fought the redskins" and are buried on the Old homestead.

EDWARD CUNNINGHAM apparently was a fighting man and was on the frontier and it's confrontations with the Indians . Some time before his his encounter with the Indians on Cunningham's Run and the capture of his wife , Phebe by them, he had another experience with them.

On March 3,1778 , a party of Indians came upon a number of children playing on the banks of Ten Mile Creek , in the yard of a house known as Fort Harbert. It was designated as a place of refuge in case of an Indian attack in the area, hence it's name. The children ran screaming toward the house to appraise their elders of the Indians' presence. John Murphy, running to close the door, was shot and fell back inside. The Indian , who fired the shot and not realizing that there were others in the cabin , rushed in to scalp his victim, but was instantly tackled by Mr. Harbert, who threw him to the floor and struck him with his tomahawk. In his struggle with the Infian, Harbert stood up and was shot by an Indian from outside the house, killing him instantly. While he was having his troubles with that Indian , Edward was having his own troubles with another Indian , who had followed the first one into the cabin. Edward had attempted to shoot him, upon his entry, but his rifle misfired. He grappled with the Indian and buried his tomahawk in his back , seriously wounding him. Meanwhile, Edward's wife, sarah, was hitting him with an axe , causing him to flee.

Another Indian , in the cabin, was engaged in a struggle with a Mr. Reece and his daughter. Reece , too, would have been killed had not Edward wounded hie opponet with a tomahawk, causing him also to flee.

In the yard, the indians had rounded up all the children that they could find. They killed and scalped three of the children and took five captive. before they fled into the forest toward their territory in Ohio. The total casualties of this encounter were ; One white adult and three children slain and four wounded, and one Indian killed and several wounded. It was in this raid that Joseph , the son of Edward and Sarah was captured. They found him hiding under the treadles of a large loom in the weaving house. He was eight years old.

Joseph was adopted into a Shawnee family and lived with them for sixteen years, before being released by a treaty , freeing all Indian captives. After his release , he guided pioneering families and surveyors of the vast tracts of forests. While he was on one of these surveying trips , he had a hand encounter with a large black bear. The bear grabbed him by the knee and would not let go. He killed the bear with his hunting knife and pried his jaws open to free himself. He was lamed for life by the injury. After his return to civilization , he was known as "Injun Joe ". Joseph later married a Miss Ayres and fathered two daughters and one son. They were ; Mrs. Samuel Warne of Parkersburg, Wv. , Mrs. George Sires of Clarksburg, Wv. and Dr. John Cunningham of Illinois.

Often , there has been questions asked about "our Indian relatives" , and since Joseph was twenty four upon his return to his family, many have conjectured that he also had an "Indian" family. Before his marriage to Miss Ayres, he returned to the Shawnee Camp , but could not stand the vermin and living conditions and soon returned to his family.

TETRICK (Harter) HILL

Tetrick Ridge is situated between Teverbaugh and Bingamon Creeks in West Virginia. Before the white settlers came to the area , the ridge had been used as an Indian camp ground. At that time , game was plentiful as were the fruits of the forest.. The wild fruits, berries and nuts were to be had for the gathering. There was , also, a great stand of hard maple trees from which the Indians gathered the sap to make sugar. After the Indians left or were driven out , the settlers still used the same trees to make maple sugar.

Harvey Fortney wrote an article for the West Virginia Hill Billy paper on October 22, 1966 , in which he stated that on this ridge , near the home of Clyde H. Woods , stood the log cabin of Richard Cunningham whose son, Felix married Aunt Columbia Ellen Fortney. Uncle Felix and Aunt Lum lived in this cabin for some years before building Wood's home. It was , indeed , a pleasure for us children when we made frequent visits to this log cabin home. On one of these visits , Uncle Felix showed us an Indian Scalp and let us hold it in our hands. It was about the size of a small number one skunk pelt , with coarse coal black hair some three inches long, with a scalp lock six to eight inches long, extending from the front to back. We surmised that this was the scalp of the Indian who was killed by our ancestor, Edward Cunningham , at Harbert's Blockhouse on Jone's Run near Lumberport. Uncle's sister, Jane, married a Robinson , who was a descendant of Major Robinson who lived near the Blockhouse during the Indian raids. Their son, "Dickie" who lived near Wallace, Wv. often visited Uncle Felix's home and we are of the opinion that he fell heir to the scalp.

Enoch M. Cunningham was the only one of Edward's and Sarah's children who figured in the History of the early settlers of Ritchie County, West Virginia. After his marriage to Jane Stuart, he moved to Smithville, Ritchie County, Wv., where his children were born. His son Harrison was an early merchant at Smithville. Martha Highly, Mrs. Barnes Smith, and their sister, Sarah Salina Haddox all lived at Smithville. Sarah later moved to Harrisville. Edna, Mrs. William Moats also lived at Harrisville.

Both born Summit County, Akron, Ohio

Pictures and identities and comments contributed by Robert E. Cunningham of Akron, Ohio.

My grandfather, Harrison Bloomfield Cunningham, holding his grandson, Perry Adams and Perry Jerome Cunningham, Harrison's father.

2nd row:

Laura McTaggart Cunningham, wife of Harry Spates Cunningham, Harry

Spates Cunningham, son of Harrison Bloomfield Cunningham and father of Robert E. Cunningham, who submits this picture, and Beulah Cunningham Adams, daughter of Harrison Bloomfield Cunningham and half sister of Harry Spates Cunningham, my father.

Many of my father's line of the family were railroad men. Perry Jerome worked for the railroad. My grandfather, Harry Bloomfield was a master mechanic for the B. & O. Railroad and worked in Clarksburg, Grafton, Parkersburg and Sistersville, Wv. at various times. He also worked twice for the Rock Island line, and they lived at Herington, Kansas. That is why some of the children in the family were born there. They lived there when my father, Harry Spates was small, before his mother died and then again around the turn of the century, after my grandfather's second marriage. My father somehow missed the rail business and worked for 52 years for the Parkersburg Iron and Steel Company as a mechanic. Frederick Grant Jerome Cunningham was an engineer for The Norfolk and Western in Kenova, Wv. Lester Lancelot Cunningham worked in the yards in Huntington, Wv., probably as a mechanic. He later lived at Middleport, Ohio. Lindsey Foster was, at one time, Postmaster of Pennsboro, Wv., where he lived. He also wrote short columns for a paper -- I assume the local paper. I have a few of these articles, which he sent my father. His sister, Ernestine sold tickets at the box of a theater in Pennsboro, Wv. Uncle Monroe worked for many years for a department store in Parkersburg and later had his own interior decorating business.

Family visit in 1879 means a 200 mile walk----- . The closeness of a family a century ago was demonstrated by three members of the Cunningham family, Harry B., his brothers Roy (Roland Milroy), and Lindsey (Oscar Lindsey), who decided to visit their father, Perry Jerome Cunningham, their step mother and their new child, Frederick Grant Jerome Cunningham in Stauton, Wv. a distance of 200 miles across the mountains. They walked the distance in eight days. No one knows just how they fared, where they ate or slept, probably in the barns of gracious people along the route. An article in the Parkersburg News on Apr. 25, 1976 relates this incident.

Many Robinsons and Moores are included in this genealogy because of pertinent information on the Cunningham families. The Moores, Robinsons and Cunninghams were neighbors, and because of the hardship of travel, and the nearness of the young people of the area, often inter-married, often cousins.

PHEBE CUNNINGHAM AND THE INDIANS.

Thomas and Edward Lived in adjoining cabins on Bingamon Creek in Cunninghams Run . The cabins faced each other . One day when Thomas was away on a trading trip, six Indians came to his cabin and captured Phebe, his wife and their four children, subsequently killing and scalping them one by one in front of their mother. Edward had barricaded himself in his cabin but had no time to protect Phebe and family due to the quickness of the appearance of the Indians. He did wound one of them who was helped from the area by his companions. He did die later . Due to the time it took to load his muzzle loading rifle and the fact that the Indians broke out of the back of Thomas's cabin , he was unable to prevent the disaster. That night the Indians returned to capture Edward and his family , but they had fled through the forest to safety and to seek aid. The rescuers searched for Phebe but found the bodies of her children . They gave up several days later and returned home. The Indians had fled back to Indian territory in Ohio.

Phebe was Cruelly treated and was the slave of the family of the Indian who was killed on the raid. After three years of captivity, Phebe chanced to see Simon Girty , the renegade, and begged him to intercede for her release. Surprisingly he did speak for her and she was taken to a great Indian conference at the foot of the Maumee Falls near what is now Perrysburg, Ohio. Simon brought her case before the Indian Envoy , McKee,¹ and she was released upon the payment of a few trinkets to the Indian family that had been her captors.

She went to Kentucky with two men who had come to the conference , seeking children captured by the Tribes. After much delay , she found out about the whereabouts of her husband and returned to him in Virginia. She and her husband , Thomas had more children, whose descendants now comprise a part of Ritchie County, Wv, the surrounding area and parts of the Nation. Thomas was a revolutionary veteran.

Thomas and Phebe had more children and moved to Ritchie County. Their last five children where born there. Thomas died in 1826 and is buried there. He was the first Methodist Episcopal minister in this area, and the first class was formed in his home. He was only a lay minister when he began , but was licensed to preach at Zanesville, Ohio on Sept.15,1817. The license, written on parchment, was in possession of his great Grandson , John C. Cunningham of Eva,Wv. Mrs. Cunningham , Phebe , spent her last years with her daughter, Mrs. Isaac Collins in Calhoun County , where she died.

THOMAS CUNNINGHAM , SON OF HUGH CUNNINGHAM AND NANCY O'NEIL.

THOMAS CUNNINGHAM B. 1748 D. June 2, 1826. He is buried on the Barker farm, Fonzo road, Ritchie County, West Virginia. There is a Revolutionary Marker. He is listed in the D.A.R. index. He married Phebe Tucker, daughter of John Tucker in 1776. She was born in 1761 and died in 1845. She is buried near Freed in Calhoun County, Wv. She was the Phebe of Indian fame. She and Thomas had ten children.

Children:

Henry Cunningham	Killed by Indians at about seven years of age.

The following two pages are taken from a letter that I recieved from Harold Richards of Belpre, Ohio in Jun 1981. It is a far better story of his immediate family than a genealogical listing. Harold is a direct descendant of Thomas Cunningham and Phebe Tucker. The genealogical listing was submitted by Harold Richards and Will Cunningham , son of Homer E. Cunningham. K. Blech

I am going to list the children of my Grandfather, Wilson B. Cunningham and my Grandmother, Harriett Manear Cunningham.

Ross Cunningham	B. 1883 D. 1964	Ross never married. He travelled and worked out West for years. He returned home in his later years.
Sherman Cunningham	B. 1885 D. 1952	Sherman never married and stayed home to care for my Grand parents. He later died on the Home place.
Basil Inman Cunningham	B. 1889 D. 1970	Inman never married, but stayed home and helped care care for my Grandparents. After his parents and Sherman's deaths, he a place more accessable to town , but returned to the home place. All three of of the above are buried at Hardman's Chapel.
Burns Cunningham	B. 1892 D. 1956	Burns married Pearl Mathess. They had three children. One died at the age of two years. the other two were Arthur and Doris. Arthur owned a furniture store at Harrisville, Wv. He was killed in a plane crash near the Wood County Airport, Parkersburg, Wv. He had chartered the plane and had taken his cousin to a cancer clinic at Buffalo, N.Y. On the return trip they crashed, killing Arthur, the two pilots and his cousin's wife. Arthur had two daughters, who graduated from college, two months before his death. He was born in 1921 and was 56 when he died, so the crash was in 1977. Burns , his wife and Children are buried at Nobe, Calhoun County, Between Big Springs and Grantville, Wv. Burns' daughter Doris, married a McCray. They had one daughter, Ester. Both Doris and her daughter are school teachers.
Icy Cunningham	B. D, 1974	Icy married Auty Strothers , brother of Bruce Strothers. They had one daughter who married a Radcliff and lives in Maryland. She has a daughter who is a lawyer in Calif.
Dola Cunningham	B. 1878 D. 1962	Dola married Bruce Strothers, brother of Auty, who married her sister, Icy . They had three children. One died in infancy . A boy, russell died st an early age and Sue ,who I used to play with, was killed by Lightning at the age of Nine.

Nora Cunningham	B. 1887 D. 1972	Nora married Joseph W. Richards B. 1889 D. 1973. They had two children, Harold B. 1915 and Dorsey B. 1927 D. 1979.
Grace Cunningham	B. 1894 D. 1975	Grace married Marcus Boyce who was from Fairfield Iowa. They moved to Hagerman, New Mexico where most of his family had moved to. Among other things, he operated a threshing rig, which he built, covering a large circuit through New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. This was long before the days of the combine. They moved back to my Aunt's home state in the late 1940's. In 1973 he became ill with cancer and my Aunt was unable to care for him, so I took them back to Hagerman, N.M. where his two sisters helped with his care. He died the same year. I brought Aunt Grace back to Ohio and took care of her until her death in 1975. She is the one who bought the monument for her grandfather, Eli R. Cunningham. She remembered him saying that he didn't care how he was buried, but he would like a Monument as a reminder that he had passed this way. All he had was an old field stone, until my Aunt and I obtained a small, but quality marker.
Lucy Cunningham	B. 1897 D. 1900	Lucy died of scarlet fever at about age three.

All of the above are buried at Hardman Chapel except my Mother, Nora Richards, buried at Belpre, Ohio: Aunt Icy in Cumberland, Maryland and Uncle Burns at Nobe near Grantsville, Wv. All the Cunningham children are now deceased, including their husbands and wives. There are still three grandchildren still living, (1982), Lela Radcliff of Cumberland, Maryland, Doris McCray of Smithville, Wv. and Harold Richards of Belpre, Ohio. I do not know all the dates of births and deaths. The dates that I have used are principally from cemetery readings.

One thing that I did not know or did not remember, was that my Grandmother was a Richards. One of my Grandfather's sisters was Nettie, I had completely forgotten her. I knew something was missing. The name of Spurgeon kept popping up. I believe that is who she married. She didn't live very close to my Grandfather. I guess that is why I couldn't remember her. Aunt Verona Cunningham was another that I wasn't sure of. I knew her well, but I did not know her maiden name. I thought she was a sister of my Grandfather, but as it turned out, she was a sister to both of them. I don't know how many children she had, but at least three boys I knew well. She married an Evans. The boys' names were Harrison, Andrew and Romeo--"Romie". I saw his marker at Hardman's Chapel, dated B. 1898 D. 1975. I don't know if the other two are buried there or not. Johnston Cunningham was the one who was called Uncle Jonce, I did not know his real name.

William Cunningham married into the Cross family . This is a small resume of that Family.

Solomon Cross , his obituary notice states, was born in 1778. He came to Jackson County, West Virginia , where he died August 7,1877 at the age of Ninety nine years. He lived on Cavin fork in 1821. He was a native of the Cheat River Country. His children are listed below.

Phebe Cross married John Flinn in 1830.

Isaac Cross married Morgana Bailey , daughter of Absalom in 1831.

Lucinda Cross married John Clemons in 1834.

Nimrod Cross married Eliza Richards in 1835. They lived in Harrison and Ritchie Counties but were married in Wood County,Wv.

THOMAS CUNNINGHAM AND HIS WIFE, PHEBE TUCKER.

Thomas and Edward Cunningham came to West Auhusta County about 1775. They located temporarily in the general vicinity of Fairmont, Wv. Edward was 31 and married to Sarah Price and had children. Thomas, age 19, made his home with his brother. Living near by was William Tucker and his large but young family. William was a recent arrival from England. He was a Scotsman and may have come directly to the frontier. His daughter, Phebe , was born in England.

In April of 1776 or 1777 , Phebe married Thomas Cunningham. When Mrs. Cunningham applied for a Revolutionary War Widow's Pension at the age of 79 , she could not remember the exact year, but the place of the marriage was at Pricket's Fort. Pricket's Fort is now a restored Frontier Post and a part of the park system of West Virginia. The Fort is located on the northern outskirts of Fairmont, West Virginia.

In May 1777 , Thomas, age 21, along with his brother Edward , enlisted in Captain James Booth's company of Rangers. Their mission was to protect the settlers from Indian attacks in the newly formed state of Virginia. Captain Booth, who lived where Monongah, Wv now is , had been the first settler in the area, coming in 1768. When he was killed in an Indian ambush on June 16, 1778, the Ranger Company was disbanded and Thomas and Edward returned home. They had served 13 months.

By 1780 , the Cunningham brothers had settled in adjoining cabins on their "tomahawk" claims on Bingamon Creek. Their farms or claims were near the present day Shinnston, Wv. in the northeast part of the present day Harrison County. In October, 1781 , Thomas and his company of Rangers was activated and sent to Winchester, Virginia. There the Company spent one month guarding the British Soldiers who had surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown . This was the end of Thomas's military service. By 1785 , Thomas and Phebe had four children; Henry, Lydia, Walter and Thomas. These children were killed in an Indian raid at Bingamon Creek, Cunningham Run. The story is in this book.

The captivity was a traumatic experience for her husband and her relatives on the frontier. When she returned in the early winter of 1788, she and Thomas picked up the pieces and began a second life. They did not return to their farm on Cunningham's Run, where the Indian attack occurred, but established a home south of Clarksburg , in present day Lewis County. Here they had seven more children.

Phebe and Thomas regarded their experiences , in the Indian captivity and the massacre of their children , as a warning from The Almighty that they should devote the rest of their lives in the service of The Lord.

In 1807 , the Cunninghams left their West Fork home to settle in the western part of Harrison County. They built their cabin on the South Fork of the Hughes River , a few miles above where Smithville now is now located in Ritchie County . In this home , Thomas was to spend the rest of his life. He organized the Methodist class in his home , that was to be the basic unit which was to build Hardmans Chapel in the 1860's. (Hardmans Chapel was destroyed by fire in 1980). In 1810 , his oldest son, William , became a Methodist Minister and two years later went to the Ohio conference , where he spent the rest of his life in the Ministry.

On September 5, 1817 Thomas went to Zanesville, Ohio to be ordained as a regular Minister. Peter Cartwright, the famous circuit rider, was the presiding Elder in the eastern conference and this area extended eastward to the headwaters of the Hughes River. Thomas and his son, William, both served under the leadership of Rev. Cartwright. William, in his autobiography, commented on the ruggedness of the country along the Hughes River and the wild nature of its inhabitants. His comments are written in Norman Festus Kendall's book, The Kendall, Cunningham and Snodgrass Families. Thomas continued to serve the Methodist classes through out the present day Ritchie County until his death June 3, 1826 at the age of 70. He is buried on the old Frederick Place at Frederick Mill in the Fonzo district.

After his passing his daughter, Rachel and her family moved into the homestead with her 65 year old mother, Phebe. Rachel had married Isaac S. Collins and had lived in the West Fork section of Harrison County. (Now Lewis County). Isaac was born in 1789, the son of one of the original of the Collins Settlement in the extreme southern end of what is now Lewis County. He was of Irish descent and served in the War of 1812. When the Collins family moved to the Cunningham homestead in 1816, their son, James Hezekiah, was 10 years old. In 1832, the Collins family located on Grass Run, near Smithville, being the second family to settle there. Some time after 1835, Isaac moved his family over the divide to Leading Creek, where he became the first to settle in that valley. In those days, Smithville as well as Leading Creek were in Lewis County. The Collins home was a few hundred yards up stream from the junction of Seth Fork. Here Phebe lived until her death in 1845, and here she is buried in the Gainer Cemetery on the family farm.

In the 1860 census, Isaac and Rachel, in their seventies were living on their Leading Creek farm, but by the 1880 census Isaac was deceased and Rachel was still living at the age of 91.

John Cunningham, son of Thomas and Phebe, born in 1802 was one of the pioneer settlers in the Spencer community, then Mason County, but now in Roanne County. (To understand the change of county lines, you must understand that the Counties of Virginia were very large and when West Virginia was formed by their secession from Virginia by the Slavery Question and by the fact that they were very far from the Capitol of the State, new counties were formed by partition of surrounding Counties, making them smaller). Many of John's descendants still live in this part of the State.

Sera Lee Cunningham was born in 1796 and married Benjamin Hardman. He was the son of a German Immigrant, Joseph Hardman, who came to Fredericksburg, Va. in 1773. The Hardman families were pioneer settlers on Cedar Creek in the present day Gilmer County, settling there in 1797. Benjamin Hardman built Frederick Mill on the south fork of the Hughes River, near the early Cunningham Home. The family later migrated to Iowa but stayed only a short time, a few years, before returning to Wv. They settled on Reedy Creek in Roanne County and lived the rest of their lives on this farm. They had ten children and most of them lived in this area. One daughter, Rebecca Hardman married Henry Elliott of Calhoun County. Another daughter married Philip Frederick of Burnt House. Mary Leah married in 1859 to Henry Clay McWhorter of the well known McWhorters of Lewis County. He was an officer in the Civil War, a State Senator, Prosecuting Attorney of Kanawha County, Postmaster of Charleston, and Justice of the Supreme Court of West Virginia from 1897 to 1908.

The next daughter of Thomas and Phebe Cunningham was Phebe , born Sept. 10, 1795. She died Aug. 3, 1871. She married James Hardman , a brother of Benjamin , who married her sister Sera Lee, in 1816. Another of Benjamin and James was George W. Hardman , who settled Hardman Bend , down river from the present day Grantsville. James Hardman was a veteran of the War of 1812 and was a lay Minister of the Methodist Church. The mantle of the Reverend Thomas Cunningham was passed on to him at Thomas's death. He was mainly responsible for the building of Hardman's Chapel, near his farm and Smithville. James and Phebe are both buried in the Church Cemetery, she in 1871 and he in 1874. They had twelve children, most of them living in Ritchie County. One son, James S. Hardman, enlisted with John Snider in the 11th Virginians in the Civil War. He became the owner of Webb's Mill in the 1870's and with his son, Sheridan,⁴ operated the Mill until it discontinued operation in the early 1900's.

The youngest daughter of Thomas and Phebe was Barbara , born in 1797. She married into the pioneer family of Hill of Leather Bark and migrated to Eddyville, Iowa. They remained there the rest of their lives,⁴ and are buried there.

Benjamin, the youngest of Thomas's and Phebe's family was born in April, 1800. He married Hannah Riddle and lived near Smithville for a time. Then they , too , moved to Iowa when his two sisters did , but returned soon and settled near the head of the Leatherbark. Here he lived until his death at the age of 53. He was buried along side his father on the Frederick Place in the Fonzo Community. His wife, Hannah, died in 1881 and is buried at Hardman Chapel. There were nine children in this family . Their sons, John R. and William are listed on preceding pages of this book.

Transcriptions of the original papers pertaining to the service of Adam and Walter Jr. , sons of Walter Cunningham of Harrison County, Wv. At the time of the War of 1812. The ink has faded and the paper has darkened , making it difficult to be accurate in the wording, but it is the literal if not true transcription. These papers are now in the possession of Philip Parker of Vienna , Wv. , who most generously loaned them to me. I tried reproducing them with no success.

He was exempted from duty until his brother , James (half brother) recovered from his wounds. David was converted to Methodism by John Wesley. Kendall tied him to his spotted horse and returned him to his family in Culpepper County.

William Cunningham Sr. was with George Washington at Yorktown and witness- the surrender of Cornwallis, a friend of the Cunningham families in England.

The research of this Cunningham family and the numbering system was done by Pauline Mays , daughter of Dessie Pearl Elliott and Ira Jasper Roberts and submitted to me for publication.

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM , SON OF DAVID CUNNINGHAM AND ANGELINE WILSON.

William was born July 24, 1764 in Ireland. He married Susanna Barbara Handysell and lived in Culpepper County , near his father until 1806 , when he moved to Ritchie County, in what is now West Virginia. Part of his children were born in each County. Most sources state that his earliest or eldest children were born in what is now Hampshire County, West Virginia.

William joined The Continental Army under George Washington on his march to Yorktown , with his father's permission. Because of his youth and large stature, he was assigned as a bodyguard of General Washington. He witnessed the surrender of Cornwallis, a friend of the Cunningham families still in England. . Later in life, Mr. Cunningham established the towns of Cornwallis and Williamsburg. Cornwallis was named after the defeated English general , whom he admired . Williamsburg was very near Harrisville, Wv. and is now a part of that town.

As often is the case the human side , or better yet, the frailties of our ancestors are left out of our research of the family history. Here is such a story of William Cunningham , the son of David. William's nickname, later in life, was "Old Shogg". This story was handed down by Barnett Foley Cunningham , the grandson of Walter Cunningham, William's 1st cousin.

"Old Shogg" was an old time "Hell Raiser". He would fight at the drop of a hat and drop the hat himself, at that. Once in a while he would bite off more than he could chew. This one time he was getting the living daylights whaled out of himself, but managed to break away and make a run for it --- for his house. As soon as he got within calling distance of his house , he started to gaspingly call out " Fetch me the arrr". The "aar" being a fire arm which he was too much out of breath to correctly call for. When she came out of the house with the "aar" , the other man turned tail and started to beat a hasty retreat. Old Shogg ran him down , forced him to kneel, beg for mercy and promise that there would be no more fighting on his part !!!!!!! Ah , for the good (?) old days. This is also the William who gave the right away for the B. and D. railway , when they built through this area of West Virginia.

The foregoing story is consistent with the actions of his father , the Reverend David Cunningham. He often preached to the rougher element, the loggers in the mountains. When he called upon them to repent their sins , they often tried to break up the meeting. The Reverend said " when my 6' foot 2 inch frame, weighing 240 pounds becomes impatient , I swing into action and when the wreckage was cleared up , with the offenders sitting on the mourners bench , things were different. In fact , the audience ever after, was very respectful of me. It made very little difference to me whether I preached the Hell out of them or knocked it out. The results were the same".

The story "Old Shogg" was submitted by Philip A. Parker of Vienna, Wv. He is the grandson of Barnett Foley Cunningham.

The Battle of Pleasant Point.

One author called this encounter the first battle of the Revolution , however other authors , of the time, do not consider it to be either a battle of The Revolution , or The French and Indian War, perhaps it should be called , instead, "Lord Dunmore's War".

Lord Dunmore was Governor of Virginia at the time and sought to increase the size and importance of that colony , as well as to add honors to his name . He wanted to settle the question of who controlled the Forks of the Ohio. (Pittsburgh), which both Pennsylvania and Virginia were claiming.

Dunmore sent Dr. John Connolly , who changed the name of Ft. Pitt to Fort Dunmore, to inform the residents that Lord Dunmore had instructed him to erect a new County and become Captain of the Militia. However, Justices in the nearest organized Pennsylvania County , who had previously held jurisdiction over the disputed land , had Connolly arrested. Connolly paid his bail and returning on the day of the trial, April 6, 1774, brought with him 150 armed men, who arrested the Pennsylvania Justices and sent them off to Virginia to stand Trial themselves.

The disorganization of the situation caused Indians in the vicinity to become aggressive , especially the Shawnee tribe, and out lying settlements began to be victimized by Indian raids. Connolly exaggerated the damage done by the Indians and warned of a general Indian uprising. This gave Lord Dunmore justification to call out the Militia.

The Militia , under Gen. George Lewis , was ordered to march on the Shawnee tribe , and its towns north of the Ohio River , and Lord Dunmore even came to the Forks to take personal charge of this military action. Later more troops joined and Gov. Dunmore also called out the Pennsylvania militia. They all camped at Pleasant Point, the junction of the Ohio and Kanawha rivers.

A large force under Indian Chief Cornstalk crossed the Ohio River during the night of Oct. 3 and attacked the following morning. It was a desperate and bloody battle , fought hand to hand. By afternoon it was apparent to the Indians that they could not win and they withdrew across the Ohio. The Colonists had fifty men killed and 100 wounded , but as the Indians carried their dead and wounded with them , it wasn't known how many casualties they suffered.

The engagement ended the hostilities and the Shawnees were pushed back. the militiamen had also proven their ability to fight without the support of the Regulars or British officers.

Dunmore and Connolly returned to the Virginia Capitol where the situation was worsening between the British government and the Colonies. Lord Dunmore, a Tory , escaped aboard a British ship , and Dr. Connolly was imprisoned in Maryland for a time, and was eventually tried and found guilty as a Tory in Lexington, Kentucky in 1780.

The Pennsylvania and Virginia dispute , the root cause of "Lord Dunmore's War" was settled at the end of the Revolution in favor of Pennsylvania.

Benjamin Rathburn Cunningham's friend, Henry Progler wrote the following Memorial to him.

" At Rest"

The subject of this sketch , Benjamin R. Cunningham, was born in Jackson (then Mason) County, Va. Oct.3,1829. He was married to Mary Jane Graham , March 22,1849. In 1854 he moved to Lafayette, Indiana , where he resided until the breaking out of the war , when he enlisted in the 16th Indiana Battery and for bravery and meritorious conduct was promoted to First Sergeant , then to 2nd Lieutenant and later to 1st Lieutenant. No better soldier or braver man ever enlisted in defense of his Country's flag. He was regarded by his Officers as the best gunner in the battery.

At the close of the War , he returned to his native county and engaged in the occupation of a carpenter and builder. this occupation , he followed up to the time of his death.

For many years prior to his death, he suffered from the disease that ended his life,⁴ Bright's disease. But few men would have borne his suffering, as he did, without complaint.

As a neighbor ,⁴ he was kind and out going; as a host he was hospitable to a fault ; as a fellow workman he was always ready to do his part , and was never known to shrink from a post of danger. Much of his suffering was brought about by hard work and heavy lifting; as a friend he was true as steel. In death, his family lost a kind and indulgent father, the community a useful and good citizen.

He was buried by the Masonic Fraternity of which he had long been a member and was followed to his last resting place by an unusually large number of sorrowing friends.

Rest,⁴ Warrior, Rest , your warfare is o'er,
The olive branch, hence forth shall be thy shield. Comrades becon from the other shore,
The great Commander calls and to His will I yield.

C.H.P.

The whole of the Genealogy of James Cunningham was submitted By James Cunningham of 116 Oak Ave,³ Pittsburgh, Pa. and Bernice Chandler of 770 Briarwood Ct. Orange City,¹ Fla. The following story is submitted by James. He has done extensive research on the Cunningham family and has been to Scotland several times.

BENJAMIN AND MARY JANE CUNNINGHAM

In the center of a well kept cemetery near Staats Mills, Wv. , you will find a distinctive grave marker. It is a small obelisk standing rather unsteadily on a square base , and these words are inscribed thereon :

" Kind friends beware as you pass by,
As you are now, so once was I.
As I am now, so you must be,
Prepare Therefor to follow me.

SARAH , WIFE OF
JAMES CUNNINGHAM
BORN JUNE 6,1812
Died July 6,1862

Sarah and James were the parents of Benjamin Rathburn Cunningham, born October 3,1829. There was one older daughter,⁴ Matilda Ann, born in 1828, but after Benjamin,⁵ a Farmers dream came true,⁶ and five more healthy sons were born. Isaac Marshall , born in 1831,⁷ Thadeous Sabina January 2,1833 , William p. January 26,1834, Elias Alexander February 25,1838, and George B. in 1840. Three girls followed - Letha C. in 1842 , Emily S. in 1844 ,⁸ Martha L. in 1846. Webster Joel was born in 1849 , the same year that Ben and Mary Jane was married. Phoebe Jane was born in 1852. James M. was born in 1855. He was the last child and Sarah was probably glad of that.

Benjamin was not yet twenty and Mary Jane was just 17 when they were married on March 22,1849 , and the young couple settled in a house on his father's farm. The census of 1850 for Jackson County,Va. lists B. R. Cunningham 20, Mary Jane as 18, and James as age 6 months ,⁹ in house no.357, and James and family in house no. 356. Mary Jane Cunningham, nee Graham, born Mar.15,1832, was the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Rader) Graham, whose family is listed in the 1850 census , house no, 983 ; children - Richard 16, William 14, Francis 12, Alfred 10, Robert 7 ,¹⁰ James 2, and a Margaret Durst. Thomas was 45 and Elizabeth was 40. In addition to these brothers and sisters, Mary Jane had at least two other married sisters -- Louise Caroline, wife of Isaih Vail, house no. 972, and Florence , wife of Wilson Parsons in house no. 283 . the 1860 census lists Mary C. 28 , J.W. 10 , Viola J. 1, in the household of Wilson and Florence Parsons in house no 458. Perhaps they were back from a visit at the time of the census , and were listed as residents.

In 1854 , Benjamin and Mary Jane and their son , James moved to Lafayette, Tippecanoe, County,¹¹ Indiana. At this time , Indiana was growing rapidly , ranking sixth in the nation in population.. Lafayette was a city of six thousand by 1850 and it was undoubtedly an area that would be attractive to people who wished to emigrate from the rural areas of Virginia and Ohio. Their second child , Viola Jane was born there in January 29,1859 , and a third child , Leola Bell , was born November 19,1862. Benjamin's brother , George, came to live with them , some time after 1858. I like to think that George was a favorite younger brother of Benjamin. There was a difference of 11 years in their ages - enough for Ben to be a big brother hero to George. He was 19 when Ben and Mary Jane were married and probably enjoyed visiting the young couple while they lived on the farm. James deeded 455 acres of land on Bear Fork to his sons,

George and Thadeous in 1858 , and sometime after that, George followed Benjamin and Mary Jane to Lafayette and probably lived with them until he enlisted in the Union Army. Georges Army record describes him as 6 foot 1½ inches tall, Light complexion, gray eyes, light hair, occupation Farmer. On July 22, 1861 George enlisted in the 20th Regiment , Indiana Infantry Volunteers , and eight months later , on March 25, 1862 Benjamin enlisted in the 16th Independent Battery Light Artillery , Indiana Volunteers. If it seems strange that a 32 year old father of two decided to join the Army , it must be kept in mind that there was a tremendous pressure on all able bodied men to enlist to save the Union. This was especially true in Indiana where Governor Morton didn't hesitate to brand those who did not sign up , as cowards or Copperheads , who favored the Southern Rebels. The war was likely to be short lived anyway. The Federal Government even stopped the draft in April of that year!

At any rate , Benjamin Cunningham was now a private in the Army and Mary Jane was in Lafayette with a 12 year old son , a 2 year old daughter and expecting a third child. These were the days before cash bounties were paid to the men to men who enlisted, so things must have been pretty tight financially for her Benjamin was promoted in May , though, and his Sergeant's pay may have helped some.

According to the unit muster records , Benjamin was the Battery carpenter in addition to his other duties , so he must have been skilled at the trade by then. He is described as 5 foot 10 inches tall, dark complectipned , gray eyes, and dark hair. He was promoted to Sergeant May 24, 1862, to 2nd Lieutenant November 10, 1864 and to 1st Leiutenant on June 12, 1865.

The 16th Battery left Indiana for Washington, D.C. June 1-, 1862. and was assigned to duty at the Capitol Hill until June 26th. It was then ordered to join General Banks in the Shanandoah Valley and was attached to the 2nd Army Corps, Army of Virginia until September , 1862. In May and June another Union Army, The Army of the Potomac , under General George McClelland , was on the way up the Virginia penninsula between the York and James Rivers with the intention of capturing Richmond and putting an early end to the War. Pvt. George Cunningham was there. His unit was attached to Jamison's Brigade in one armed General Phil Kearney's Division. Richmond could have been taken and the War shortened considerably , except for a combination of circumstances , including bad weather and President Lincoln's decision to hold back some of the help , he promised McClelland. But the most important circumstance (probably of the whole War) occurred on the morning of May 31st when the Commander of the Confederate Forces , General Johnson , attacked at Seven Pines. During the Battle , a bullet from the musket of a Union Soldier (possibly from a 21 year old private from the 20th Indiana) entered the chest of General Johnson , removing him from action . His replacemant was Robert E. Lee, who promptly named his new command the Army of Northern Virginia and held the Union Army at bay for three years. Lee soon decided that the best defense was an offense and the Seven Days Battle began. George's outfit severed the retreat of the 3rd Corps , participating in all the battles, especially that of Glendale (or Frazier's Run) in which the Regiment lost heavily. The 20th fell back with the rest of the Army , but George did not return. In 1978 we visited a small Glendale National Cemetery, where I am sure he is buried in one of the graves marked "Union Soldiers". He was killed June 30 or July, 1862 according to Army records. The campaign was a failure , the Army of the Potomac returned to Northern Virginia , and McClelland was relieved of his command.

Benjamin's battery was with General Banks in Pope's campaign when it was defeated by Stonewall Jackson in the Battle of Cedar or Slaughter Mountain south of Culpepper. They again fought at the Fords of the Rappahannock August 21 - 23 and again at Groveton on August 28 and 29. On August 30, 1863 Lee, Jackson and 48,527 troops defeated the Federals 75,696 troops, including the 16th Indiana Light Artillery. This was the second Battle of Bull Run.

McClelland was reinstated and the 16th was attached to the 2nd division, XII Corps of his Army of the Potomac. It participated in the Maryland Campaign, which included the terrible battle of Antietam on Sept. 17, 1862. This was the bloodiest battle of the War, but again McClelland did follow through to complete the victory and the fine young men had to follow their bumbling general on to Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, The Wilderness, Richmond again and finally the stillness at Appomattox.

The family contributed heavily to the cause. Benjamin's Uncle Joel was commissioned to organize state troops before the War, then went into the Regular Army and died at Buflao, Wv. January 7, 1862. Brother William was a 1st Lieutenant of Company K 13th Infantry Volunteers. Thadeous Sabina was a Sergeant in Company F 9th Infantry Volunteers and was captured at Winchester September 19, 1864. Elias was a private in Company D 141st Regiment, Ohio Volunteers. One of his favorite war stories has been handed down. "Once while standing guard at a strategic place, a General approached at night, unidentified. Unshaken, Elias told him to halt, turn and go back 3 paces. Later the General reported that as long as the last Cunningham was out there, we are safe". Mary Jane had one or two brothers in the war, in the Union Army. One William Graham was a Private in Company C, 1st Cavalry Volunteers and was captured in the Battle of Winchester July 20, 1864. He was later exchanged and on returning to his outfit, after a leave of absence in March, 1865, he was shot and killed from ambush. Guerilla warfare was at it's worst at this time and many a Union soldier, traveling alone was killed by Southern Sympathizers. Young Owen Ingoldsby was there in the last year of fighting with the 55th Infantry Division, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was 16 at the time -- probably signed on by an unscrupulous enlistment agent trying to fill his quota. Somehow he survived the slaughter at Cold Harbor in September, 1864, then fought in the trench warfare at Petersburg and the famous miner's tunnel bombing that winter and then went on to Appomattox. Years later, Owen's neice would marry Benjamin's son.

After Antietam, Benjamin and the 16th Battery were ordered to Washington, D.C. for duty in defense of the city "north and south of the Potomac". They fought at Kelly's Ford in March 1863 and at Beverly, or Cunningham's Ford in June 1863 and were at Fort Stevens July 11 and 12, 1864 when the Confederate General Jubal Early attacked Washington. Benjamin may have seen the tall man with the stove pipe hat, who came out to the Fort to see for himself how the battle was going. The 16th remained on duty in Washington and nearby forts for the remainder of the War.

While Benjamin was in the army, he received many sad communications. His Mother died July 6, 1862, his brother and brother in law was killed in action his daughter, Leola Bell died Sept. 1, 1864 at the age of 20 months. He was given a furlough to go to Lafayette, Indiana from October 6 to October 21, 1864, possibly because of Leola's death.

On March 24, 1865, Benjamin was given a 15 day leave of absence to enable him to proceed to Ripley, West Virginia on important personal business, so it is likely that he had moved his family back to West Virginia by then.

Mary Jane visited her husband in Washington at least once and possibly, several times, while he was stationed there. Her picture with young James and Viola could have been taken on one of these visits. Aunt Viola has related to Adele Walsh and Anita Harpold that they were in Washington the night that Lincoln was assassinated, so they may have all gone back to Washington, together, at the end of one of these leaves to Ripley. President Lincoln was assassinated April 15, 1865.

The 6th Battery was mustered out at Indianapolis July 5, 1865 and Benjamin now 35, returned to Mary Jane James and Viola and started life again in Ripley. He pursued the carpentry trade and eventually became a successful contractor. He built the covered bridge at Mill Creek at Ripley, framed the St. Johns Episcopal Church which stood on Church street in Ripley until it was razed in 1972. He built the Sarvis covered bridge which is still standing at New Era, Wv. This bridge was originally built over Mill Creek at Carnahans Ford and later was moved to it's present site. Eighteen Clarence probably worked very hard on this bridge, while learning the carpentry trade. At one time Benjamin owned a tavern on North street. It is now a very nice residence. The Cunningham home in Ripley was a fine white house at Main and Maple streets, where Dora Dell was born. March 13. 1868 and Clarence Ambrose on Dec. 4, 1870. The house was torn down and is now a commercial property. The 1870 census shows B.R. Cunningham worth as $1000 in real estate and $ 300 in personal property, House no. 44 in the town of Ripley.

Mary Jane, apparently was an accomplished seamstress and passed the skill along to her daughters. Viola became a professional seamstress and for many years she would make complete wardrobes for families, living with them for the period of time needed to measure and sew the clothes ordered.

The Cunningham family was close knit and devoted. None of the children were in a hurry to move away, and it was not until 1883 that James married Lucy Kidd and moved to Ohio. He was then 33 years old. Dora married Jennings Harpold January 15, 1890. Viola and Clarence lived at home until their parent's deaths.

When he was 60 years old, Benjamin applied for a government pension, stating that he was partially disabled due to war illnesses - rheumatism, kidney disease and the results thereof, and general disability. He was awarded a pension of $12 a month.

At 8 o'clock on the morning of October 23, 1893, Mary Jane died. She was buried in the Cunningham plot at the Ripley cemetery. It is possible that little Leola Bell is also buried there. Adele Harpold Walsh remembers putting flowers on Leola Bell's grave every Memorial day, and recalls that her grave stone was destroyed by a falling tree. Viola, Dora and Clarence cared for their father in his final days, and eighteen months after Mary Jane died on April 26, 1893, Benjamin Passed away and was buried beside her in the Ripley Cemetery.

EVENTS ON THE FRONTIER OF VIRGINIA.

All the bandit forays , activities of outlaws, and Indian atrocities were not limited to the old wild west as we knew it. These events were done by people who haunted the frontier and used it's uninhabited area to operate from , and that frontier moved westward from the Ohio Valley.

Nathan Cunningham was a law enforcement man and always been an honest man. Nathan was murdered on Aug.10,,1877 on Second Creek , near the post office , now Advent,Wv. The outlaw gang fired two shots. One took effect on his breast, and the other in his abdomen. The fingers on his left hand were shot off. He sprang across the road to see who they were . He recognized them , and his son who was with him helped him back on the road. He started down the road , the boy in the lead. Two more shots rang out. He called to the boy ,"Go home and tell my wife that -----* has killed me". "-----* , you have killed me, don't kill my boy. Joel Cunningham , his son , was that boy. He was ten years old . His daughter Henrietta Ann was only three months old at that time.

The above account was written by Vivian Pelfry , his granddaughter, many years ago. Bernice S. Chandler , Henrietta's granddaughter submitted this article for our book.

Many atrocities were committed by the Indians in the 1770's in Virginian frontier. In September , 1774 , Joseph Prickett and Susan Ox left Prickett's Fprt , near the present day Newport , for the purpose of rounding up the cows for the night. Attracted by the cow bells , a party of Indians waylaid them, killing Josiah and capturing Mrs. Ox. For For nearly two years the Indians ignored the treaty of Pleasant Point and continued their depredations.

In June , 1777 , on Rooting Creek, in the absence of John Grisby , Indians raided his farm , plundered the house and set it on fire. Charles ,upon his return home , saw what had happened and hastily gathered several of his nearest neighbors and set off in pursuit. After following the trail of the Indians for six miles , they came upon a grisly scene. Mrs.Grisby and her youngest child had been killed and scalped. After taking care of the bodies , they again took took up the chase , but soon lost the trail of the Indians and had to return without the other child.

In the fall of 1786 , John Ice and James Snodgrass left home to look for some horses they had lost while hunting buffalo on Fishing Creek. They were killed and scalped. Their bodies were found later by a hunting party.

There are many such stories and nearly every family on the Frontier has at least one of these stories connected to their family history.

At the start of this genealogy, I had some data concerning the fact that Hugh, son of Alexander had his death date mixed with the Hugh that was supposedly killed in the Battle of Blue Licks. At the time of that research, I had no data on the real Hugh in that Battle. Now I have a limited amount of data, I will offer a bit of his lineage. In fact, when I searched for the truth of the Hugh Cunninghams, I found 16 Hughs in the Revolutionary Era.

Henry was the father of Allen H. Cunningham of Mart, Tezas formerly living at Axtell, Texas.

In a recent letter to THE LAIR , a news letter devoted entirely to the research of the Cunningham families, the above Allen H. Cunningham states that he is a first cousin of Daniel Boone , eight times removed.

John Boone and Rebecca Boone had 9 children, the first was Benjamin and the last John Boone Jr. and in between were 7 daughters. The oldest daughter was Catherine, called Katie and she was Allen H. Cunningham's gr-gr-gr-grandmother. Katie married Mark Whitaker while living in North Carolina. The Revolutionary War started and Mark joined the N.C. Militia. After the War, they moved to Kentucky. Hugh Cunningham (1741-1820) and his family were neighbors . The Hammonds, Gibsons, and Boone's who lived nearby were all cousins. In the next few years , by marriage, these families would produce descendant who would form family trees.

At the same time , we must realize that the Cunninghams were contributing branches to their family tree. Mark and Katie(Boone) Whitaker's granddaughter, Mary Ann Hammond married Hugh Cunningham's (1741 - 1820) grandson, Henry Gibson Cunningham . James Cunningham , son of Hugh and father of Henry Gibson Cunningham was married to Elizabeth Gibson . With these unions the Cunninghams, Whitakers, Hammonds, Boones, and Gibsons all became a part of my family tree.

Aug.21,1832. Harrison County, Virginia. Walter Cunningham of Simpson's Creek , said County, age 83, declares in 1776 he resided in Shenandoah County, Virginia. In the summer of 1776 , he visited his brother in Monongalia County, Virginia and when there , enlisted in a company of Rangers under Capt. David Scott. He was employed in reconnoitering the country between the Monongalia and Ohio Rivers. The Company was frequently successful in discovering the approach of Indians and conveying this intelligence to the settlements, and Forts. He was discharged at the termination of the three months.

In the fall of 1777 , after returning home to Shenandoah , He enlisted under Capt. Michael Rader, was marched to Ft. Pitt and was attached to a regiment under Gen. Hand. He descended the Ohio to Wheeling , where he was discharged, after having served three months. He has a discharge signed by Lt. John Mahon. He moved from Shenandoah County to Harrison County , Where he now resides , many years ago. He was born in Shenandoah County, Virginia in December of 1749 , as recorded in an old family bible , now in his possession.

Aug.12,1832. Harrison County, Virginia. Anthony (X) Kuhn declares Walter Cunningham Served three months in Capt. David Scott's Company of Rangers. John Mahon Lieutenant, in 1777

Walter and Thomas Cunningham is discharged from the Ranging Class Company Feb.1,1777. Giving my Hand , John Mahon.

There is another listing or record of a Walter Cunningham that does cause some confusion and makes present day Philip Parker believe that the above Walter is not necessarily his forebear. The fact that there are other Walters in the Archives leads to this confusion . Listed below is another Walter Cunningham, or is it???

Cunningham, Walter , Harrison 85, MLP

Cunningham, Walter, Capt. MSS SP

MLP means Militia Pension List.

SP means : State of Virginia Papers in the War Department , which one would expect to find in the State Archives. They are now on file with the General Services Administration , Nation Archives, Washington D.C.
